A Political Tournament To Be Held at Seattle.

THE OUTLOOK FROM OLYMPIA

Four Hundred Names Challenged in a Montana Town—Republican Speaking at North Yakima—Northwestern Notes

SEATTLE, Sept 25.—The republicans and the democrats have arranged to have a joint debate to take place here next Saturday afternoon and evening, to be participated in by six of the leading political lights in both parties in Washington. Three out of the five following will be named by the republicans to espouse their cause: John B Allen, E P Ferry, J C Haines, Fred W [illegible] and S P [illegible], the last of California. Three of the following democrats will speak: Charles S Voorhees, F C [illegible], Junius Rochester, James Hamilton Lewis and Major George W Bell. Three speeches limited to one hour each will be made in the afternoon at the university grounds and three more in the evening at the armory. The greatest interest has been aroused in the proposed discussions and doubtless they will be attended by immense crowds.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK

Republicans at Headquarters Confident of Victory

OLYMPIA, Wash, Sept [illegible].—From inquiry made at the republican headquarters to-day it has been ascertained that every confidence is felt in the election of the republican state ticket and a fair working majority in the legislature. Considerable indignation is felt and expressed by republicans here over the fact that democratic speakers, fully recognizing the fact that they are sure to be defeated, have as a last resort begun an attempt to vote down the constitution, an instrument that received the signatures of some of those who are now declaiming most loudly against it merely for political purposes and who in order to advance their own selfish ends are even willing to defer statehood sooner than see Washington sending three republicans to the next congress.

Olympia's prospects to become the state capital are brightening daily, and the more consideration is given to the matter the more her friends increase.

The weather is delightful and every advantage is being taken to push on work in the city. From sixty to seventy-five houses have recently been built within the city limits and yet immigration is growing so fast that even the increased accommodations fail to supply the general demand.

The census tables published in yesterday's OREGONIAN, the figures of which were only obtained from the county auditors through the persistent efforts of the territorial auditor, have caused considerable comment here and have set people to wondering why any city or town east of the mountains should ever have been mentioned as a state capital when Western Washington shows such an enormous preponderance of population.

FOUR HUNDRED NAMES CHALLENGED

A Charge of Illegal Registration Preferred at Anaconda, Mont

HELENA, Mont, Sept 25.—O B O'Bannon of Deer Lodge to-day challenged over four hundred names on the registry list at Anaconda, alleging illegal registration. O'Bannon claims these parties were imported by the Anaconda Mining company from abroad within the past six months, that no declaration of intention to vote was made as required by law, which technically disqualifies them. In some cases the illegal issuance of certificates is claimed. Great excitement prevails and the end is not yet, for 400 votes one way or the other may determine the political complexion of the new state.

FROM NORTH YAKIMA

Republicans Addressed by Messrs. Haines and Wilson

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash, Sept 25.—The republicans held an enthusiastic mass meeting to-night addressed by Hon John L Wilson, candidate for congress, and Hon J C Haines of Seattle. The people turned out en masse and accorded the speakers a most hearty reception.

Mr Haines left to-night for the Sound and Mr Wilson leaves to-morrow for Colfax. There will be speaking here again Saturday and Monday.

The trains to-day brought in capitalists from Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle to purchase property here in anticipation of the result of the election on October 1.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL

The School for Blind—Decision in the Celebrated Dixie Mill Case.

SALEM, Or, Sept 25.—The blind school opened for the school year to-day. It is probable the attendance will be twelve or more. The deaf mute school has an attendance of twenty with prospects for a successful term.

The celebrated Dixie mill case under the title of John Munch vs A Kratz, C W Washburn, Conrad Miller and Henry Miller has been decided by Judge Boise. The decree is as follows: It is ordered and decreed by the court that the receiver S T Burch pay the bank of Ladd & Tilton of Portland and to the Commercial National bank of Portland the several sums due to them respectively from the firm of Kratz, Washburn & Co, the exact amount of such indebtedness to be ascertained by said receiver, about $8,[illegible]0 and $[illegible],214 64 respectively. That said receiver sell at public auction the uncollected notes and accounts due said firm of Kratz, Washburn & Co; that he be allowed to retain in his possession the sum of $1001 to pay for his services already rendered; that he pay the balance of the funds to the clerk of this court; that said receiver report to this court at the next term thereof.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state to-day as follows: Home for Chinese Women and Girls of Portland, with Mary A Holbrook, Maria R Andrews, Josephine J Allen, Jane Williamson, Mary A Cooper, Lydia A Warren and Ah Hio directors as incorporators; object of corporation rescuing, protecting and caring for Chinese women. The American Dressed Meat Company of Portland, with a capital stock of $[illegible],000; John F O'Shea, James R O'Shea, M M Spaulding, Emanuel May, Thomas Papworth and Adolph Burckhard incorporators. The Plumb Creek Wagon Road Company, with the principal office at Portland and a capital stock of $30,000. The incorporators are Anthony Moore, W H Holmes and W T Griswold; the object of the corporation shall be to construct a toll wagon road from the Columbia river in Multnomah county to the summit of the divide of the waters of Bull Run.

John Bridgford of Salem was commissioned a notary public.

GOLD AT OREGON CITY

Fairly Rich Deposits Discovered Near the Town—Shot Gold Obtained

OREGON CITY, Sept 25.—It has been known for a long time to mining experts that color was to be found in the vicinity of Oregon City but no attempt has been made to find gold. One day last week a man approached E E Charman, proprietor of Clackamas Heights, adjoining Oregon City on the northeast, and wished to negotiate for the purchase of one of the roughest lots on the tract. It was in fact a piece lying in a canyon. A bargain was at length concluded and the man went on his way owner of the desired piece. A few days later Charman was driving in the vicinity of the lot and heard some one working down in the gulch. He hitched and went down to the bottom where he found the new owner mining gold, which seems to exist there in considerable quantities, as he secured color from every pan washed. The gold is in clear particles, about the size of a small shot. The present owners of the lot are Sam and John Forsyth and A Hart. They are working their claim with very good success, a single pan yielding as many as a dozen pieces of clear gold the size mentioned.

The men were very cautious about their find and worked on the sly, keeping the thing quiet, but they thought they had too good a thing and could not keep it quiet, so to-day it began to leak out, but this article will be the first reliable information given to the public. The deposit is in a clay and sand formation, freely mixed with gravel, and is easily washed. It bids fair to attract much attention, as it is so conveniently located.

FROM ALBANY

Congressman Hermann's Movements—A Railroad Party Coming.

ALBANY, Or, Sept 25.—Congressman Binger Hermann arrived in this city this morning from Roseburg and spent the forenoon in visiting points of interest about the city, and looking into the interests of his constituents in this part of Oregon. He left at noon for Yaquina to inspect the government jetties and ascertain the needs of the harbor in the way of appropriations. He will return on Friday and go to Salem.

It is announced that Colonel T E Hogg of New York City, president of the Oregon Pacific railroad, in company with a party of Chicago & Northwestern magnates, will arrive Friday from New York. The party will be tendered a reception at Corvallis, Mayor Lee having called a meeting for that purpose. Some important developments concerning the eastward extension of the road are expected on their arrival.

FROM BRITISH COLUMBIA

A British Naval Officer in Disgrace—Crime Notes.

VICTORIA, B C, Sept 2[illegible].—Captain Atkinson, of H M S Acorn, left for England this morning. He is reported on sick leave, but the true reason is he has been suspended by the admiral for conduct unbecoming a gentleman. The offense occurred at a dinner given by the captain of the flagship last week, when Atkinson made use of offensive words, which were overheard by the admiral. The latter gave Atkinson the option of being tried by court martial or suspended, and Captain Atkinson chose the latter alternative.

In the police court to-day James Dudley was committed for trial without bail for rape on Lavina Prior, a woman [illegible] years of age. There is no doubt of the prisoner's guilt. Three others are wanted as accessories to the crime, but so far have eluded arrest.

William Dunstan, a self-styled detective in this city, is wanted on a charge of obtaining money on false pretenses from Chinamen in his capacity as detective. Dunstan was released on bail of $100 and fled the city to avoid arrest.

FROM SPOKANE FALLS

The Boodler Trial—Completion of the O R & N Extension

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash, Sept 25.—The city hall was crowded all day by citizens interested in the argument in the case against Councilman Waters, charged with stealing provisions from the relief committee. The argument was concluded at 6 o'clock and the case taken under advisement till Friday morning.

This has been the most interesting legal contest that ever occurred in Spokane Falls.

Robert Inglis, charged with the same offense, and whose voluntary statement led to the arrest of Councilmen Waters and Dicker and Policeman Gillespie, was at Missoula, Mont. Chief of Police Warren went up to arrest him but he eluded the officer and escaped. It is thought he received a hint from here to skip.

Mason Smith, the wholesale grocer who was injured Monday night by a fall from his horse, died to-day.

The Washington & Idaho railroad extension of the O R & N from Rockford to Spokane Falls was completed into this city to-day. It connects with the Union Pacific system.

A FUGITIVE FROM NEBRASKA.

Who Is Charged With Squandering the Estate of an Heiress

SEATTLE, Wash, Sept 25.—George Mayrie of Lincoln, Nebraska, was the name of the prisoner captured last night by detective Crow of the Central detective agency of Lincoln. Mayrie was guardian of an estate of a wealthy heiress and began speculating with the funds of the estate and one day he found himself about sixty thousand short and left the country. He was traced to Seattle and was apprehended last night at the Standard theater. Mayrie took his arrest quietly until about to leave on the early train this morning, then he begged earnestly to be allowed to remain, saying he was expecting his wife and babe to-day. He was nevertheless taken by the detective, who considered his plea mere pretext that he might sue out a writ of habeas corpus.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC & MONTANA.

The Contract Let for the Construction of the Road

HELENA, Mont, Sept 25.—The contract for the construction of the Northern Pacific & Montana railroad from Missoula to the Cœur d'Alene country was to-day let to Wood & Larsen, contractors. The contract calls for the completion of forty miles of the road by the 1st of June next.

The penitentiary contains 1[illegible] convicts, two of whom were this morning adjudged insane, and will be taken to Steilacoom in a few days.

Olympia and Ellensburg have large delegations this side of the mountains working in their interests on the capitol question. John Cavanaugh, Mr Haines and others are expected here to-night.

Crushed to Death

OLYMPIA, Wash, Sept 25.—A man by the name of William [illegible], employed on the Puget Sound and Grays Harbor railroad, was killed by the cars this afternoon while in the act of coupling the cars on that line near Kamilchie. The train passed over his head and limbs, crushing him so as to be beyond recognition by his friends. His body will be brought to Olympia to-morrow for burial.

The Tacoma Gold Craze

TACOMA, Wash, Sept 25.—It is now generally understood that the so-called gold excitement is simply a scheme of a number of well known people to obtain possession of some of the most valuable property in the neighborhood of Tacoma school section 16.

Burglaries in Seattle

SEATTLE, Sept 25.—Four burglaries were committed out on Grant street last night. At one place the depredators got $300 and at another they aroused the master of the house, O C Hattabough, and he fired three shots at them. They got away.

Dr George M Sternberg, a major and surgeon of the United States army, has returned from a six months stay in Cuba, where he has been continuing researches in reference to the cause and prevention of yellow fever. The court based the refusal on the ground that it had no jurisdiction.

THE NEW NAVY YARD

Report of the Commission Appointed to Select a Site.

PORT ORCHARD IS THE PLACE

The Government Will Have to Purchase 1810 Acres, at a Valuation of 233 129—The Land's Title

WASHINGTON, Sept 25.—The naval commission appointed to select the site for a navy yard on the Pacific coast north of the 42d parallel to-day formally reported to the secretary of the navy that in its judgment Puget sound [illegible] region [illegible] possesses advantages over all the other sites [illegible] and a particular site should be sought behind [illegible] island.

The report of the board is quite long and concludes as follows: After fully weighing all the considerations that have been set forth the commission has selected Point [illegible] to be recommended to the department for the establishment of a navy yard on the North Pacific coast. [illegible] of the [illegible] to determine its value and ascertain the [illegible] which it can be purchased was extremely difficult, the speculation [illegible] section of the country is probably [illegible] and the followers engaged in this business ready to pounce upon any bargain [illegible] secured and use the object of the commission for speculative purposes. In order to avoid [illegible] it was decided to consider the question as [illegible] preliminary examination was made [illegible] as many of the owners as possible [illegible] written propositions obtained from them [illegible] their land to the government within one year from date for a specified sum. In some instances, where the owners could not be found until after public attention had been drawn to the investigation being made, the prices were expanded to exorbitant figures or else the parties declined to set any value upon their property.

In order to assist the commissioners to arrive at a fair valuation of the land in question in a district where values were so fluctuating, it was decided to call upon persons who were more familiar with the subject than the commissioners could be. A B Groube of Sidney, Wash, was elected on the part of the commissioners to act as one of three for this purpose, while the United States district attorney, Judge W H White of Seattle, was requested to name the second. His nominee, W H [illegible] of Seattle, and Mr Groube together selected Douglas A [illegible], also of Seattle, completing the organization required.

"The three appraisers thus appointed made careful inspection of the proposed site and their report in the main has been used as a basis for the rate herein given.

"In order that the subject of ownership might be officially determined a description of the land was submitted to the auditor for Kitsap county, within which the recommended site is situated, who gave an abstract of title as far as the ownership had been established to date. In a number of cases the claimants had not completed the requirements to secure title and a transcript of the records of the United States land office at Seattle was obtained covering these cases. Some of the claims were filed so recently that no clue could be found to the parties holding them, and in one or two instances it is believed the parties will not return to perfect their claims.

From such of the claimants as could be found written statements were secured wherein they proposed to relinquish their rights for a stated sum provided they could relocate elsewhere upon public lands. If therefore the valuation given in this report are made the basis of the transfer of this land to the United States it will be necessary for the government to authorize this change of claim.

It will be noticed that the owners valuation varies not in accordance with the location and condition of the land itself but with the date of agreement.

"The appraisement is believed to give a fair compensation for the owners in case the government should accept the property within the year ending March 1, 1890. These values include improvements to date above given. The approved estimate for the entire site recommended containing 1810 acres is $2[illegible]. The owners valuation for the same aggregates $77 964. One lot of [illegible] acres included in the above is situated on Lake Kitsap in order as before stated to facilitate the use of the waters of the lake by the government, if desired.

THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS

Letters of Instruction Mailed the Delegates From the State Department

WASHINGTON, Sept 25.—Letters were mailed from the department of state to-day informing the delegates to the international American congress that they will be expected to report for organization at the department of state at noon on October 2. They will be received by Blaine, who will deliver the address of welcome. They will organize by the election of a president, vice president and secretaries, and will then proceed to the White house, where they will be formally presented to the president. It is understood that Blaine intends to give them a dinner the same evening.

The delegates were also officially notified that the residence at 1801 I street had been secured for the use of the congress, and the subsequent meetings will be held there. They were also invited to make that house their headquarters, where they will find writing, reading and consultation rooms ready for their use.

M M ESTEE INTERVIEWED

CHICAGO, Sept 25.—M M Estee, of San Francisco, one of the United States representatives, appointed by the president, to the All American congress, was in Chicago to-day, en route East.

He said: "The public lands of this country are now being rapidly filled. For years there has been a sentiment of indifference on the part of Americans to anything but the development of our own resources. These have been appropriated, but I think we have now come to a point where we must look to the resources of foreign nations and we shall soon have to make it ours. Hardly any new country is richer than the islands of the Pacific. We ought to begin by getting their trade, and we can do it if we deserve it. This is what the slope will suggest. Ship building and the need of a Pacific cable will also be urged."

THE PRESIDENT.

He Attends a Centennial Celebration at Cumberland, Md.

CUMBERLAND, Md, Sept 25.—President Harrison left Deer Park at 10 30 this morning accompanied by the centennial reception committee. He reached Cumberland at 1 20, and was met by a regiment of the Maryland National Guard. The president was loudly cheered as he was driven along the streets to the courthouse square, where he reviewed a military and civic parade. The city was gayly decorated.

FIRES NEAR SAN DIEGO

A Vast Extent of Territory Swept Over by the Flames.

SAN DIEGO, Sept 25.—Eighteen miles of mesa and valley land have been burned over by a fire, which started at Linda Vista yesterday. The high wind last night started a line of fire for the city, whose outskirts were reached this morning. The flames swept down the canyon, burning the ties and bridges of the park belt line and endangering the houses in the outskirts. At noon the entire fire department turned out and met the conflagration at the head of Sixteenth street, where its advance was checked.

The city is filled with smoke and cinders are falling in the business districts. Many houses are known to have been in the track of the fire, and are thought to have been burned. The wind was so brisk that the flames leaped fifty feet into the air. The fire was started by a rancher burning brush.

THE O R & N MEETING.

A D[illegible] Attempt to Reduce the Guaranteed Dividends

NEW YORK, Sept 25.—Notice was issued to-day to the stockholders of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company calling a special meeting at Portland October 17 to vote on the proposed modification of the lease to the Oregon Short Line. A number of stockholders of the Union Pacific have been threatening to break the lease unless the guaranteed dividend on the stock was scaled down to 4 per cent. Should their wishes be disregarded they say they will institute proceedings in the Oregon courts to have the lease declared invalid and bring an injunction to restrain the Union Pacific from any further payment of dividends on Oregon Railway & Navigation stock.

Chauncey M. Depew Speaks at Saratoga—State Tickets Placed in the Field and Platforms Adopted

SARATOGA, Sept. 25.—The republican state convention was called to order this afternoon. Chauncey M. Depew was made temporary chairman. After several [illegible] cheers had [illegible] convention [illegible] unfinished [illegible] the [illegible] Mr. Depew [illegible] purposes and concordances among the republicans [illegible] accounts of which have filled the air [illegible] of the imagination and tongues [illegible] the [illegible] first time [illegible] the republican party is in possession of both the executive and the legislative branches of the government. They accept the responsibility, confident in their ability to wisely administer the trust. The surplus will be reduced [illegible] relieving unnecessary burdens and adjusting taxation upon private lines. The internal revenue and tariff laws are never perfect, but when reformed by the friends, as they will be during this administration, the modifications will remove unnecessary taxation without impairing in any degree the bedrock principle of protection of American industries.

Mr. Depew referred to the great enterprise and advancement shown by the South American republics at the Paris exposition, and said: "Immigration and enterprise have stimulated in these countries an industrial development in the last ten years more rapid than our own. The whole of this marvelously increasing trade now belongs to Europe. Eight years ago an eminent republican statesman foresaw the advantages of [illegible] alliance with these countries and endeavored to bring it about. Now he finds himself again minister of foreign affairs and the president in full harmony with his views."

The speaker referred to the coming congress of American nations and expressed the opinion that there would be formed a permanent political friendship and the closest commercial alliance among all the countries of the Western Hemisphere.

Speaking of the integrity of the ballot, Mr. Depew said: "The republican party will not cease agitation and effort until the ballot box secures the honest expression of the popular will and the liquor traffic is placed under control. Laws prepared and executed by the republican party in relation to the liquor license have been placed upon the statute books of our state; one third of the saloons have already been closed, thousands of wrecked homes have been repaired and thousands of young men [illegible] saved, the burdens of taxation resting on the farm and the homestead and business have been lightened, and millions of dollars have been flowing into the state treasury.

"The republican party emphatically reaffirms its previous declaration upon the question of civil service reform, and the laws now on the statute books on this subject will be carried out.

"The first cruiser launched under the new administration is a happy harbinger of a new navy, which shall redeem the credit of America upon the seas and protect a commerce which is to embrace the world. In Europe this summer I met many statesmen of the old world, and found among them fresh apprehension and profound respect for American statesmanship. The conduct and issue of the negotiations in the Samoan difficulty had impressed them with the new idea that in all matters which concern the interests of the western hemisphere the United States was a power whose wishes were potential."

Depew's reference to the growth of the South American states, almost unnoticed by the United States, but fostered by England, until Blaine was given control of the nation's foreign affairs and turned attention to South American commerce, awakened applause.

When Depew referred to rumors of republican dissensions in this state, and then shouted the Republican party of the state is all here, the delegates nudged each other in approval and craned their necks to see how ex-Senator Miller and Senator Hiscock received the utterance. Both those gentlemen were immovable of feature. However, Depew's reference to control of the liquor traffic was warmly received. Again Miller's face was scanned for evidence of approval. Not a line of his face relaxed, however, and his hands were still.

The usual committees were appointed and recess was taken until 8:30.

John J. Gilbert was nominated for secretary of state.

The platform adopted endorses the national administration, and reaffirms the approval of the doctrines in the national republican platform of 1888, namely: Protection to American industries and labor, the fostering of American shipping interests, liberal pensions, a national election law to secure the honest choice of representatives in congress, the restoration of the efficiency of the postal service, the rehabilitation of the navy, the encouragement of popular education and the promotion thereby of national patriotism, the purification and elevation of the civil service; also denouncing trusts and demanding the maintenance of a canal system by the state.

The remainder of the platform is devoted to a criticism of Governor Hill's administration.

John J. Gilbert, of Malone, was nominated for secretary of state; M. W. Cook, of Monroe, for comptroller; Ira M. Hedges, of Rockland, for treasurer; General James M. Varnum, of New York, for attorney general; Wm. V. Van Rensselaer, of Seneca, for state engineer; Albert Haight, of Buffalo, for judge of the court of appeals.

It was decided to have an additional member of the state committee selected from the colored republicans.

Adjourned sine die.

MASSACHUSETTS REPUBLICANS.

A Platform Adopted and a Ticket Placed in the Field.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The republican state convention was called to order this morning. The usual committees were appointed. Ex-Governor Robinson was selected permanent chairman.

The platform congratulates the country upon the restoration of the republican party to power, commends the wise and prudent conduct of the treasury department, rejoices in the restoration of dignity and vigor to the conduct of our foreign affairs, congratulates the president upon the practical wisdom and honest purpose with which he has dealt with the complicated question of appointments, commends the president's civil service policy, pledges the support of the republicans of Massachusetts in his efforts to root out the evil of patronage from politics; looks to congress to defend the sound currency and resist an increase of the present silver coinage, and also bring about a reduction of the surplus revenue, and requests the representatives and senators from Massachusetts to support a thorough and equitable revision of the tariff so as to adapt the protection which it affords to the changed business conditions affecting New England industries in common with those of the rest of the country; demands a national election law; favors a liberal policy toward soldiers and sailors; asks for aid to our steamship lines, and favors an increase of the navy.

Upon the liquor question the platform states that the republican party will take no backward step.

The platform further demands the maintenance of the American system of protection, a national election law, which shall give protection to the national ballot and to citizens in casting it; favors a liberal pension policy; favors aid to our steamship line and the beginning of the building up of our merchant marine, and to vote for and support [illegible] appropriations for the American navy so that we may secure at once a powerful fleet able to defend the American coast and the American flag and to be guarantee of peace with all the world.

"We believe also that our fellow citizens, of all colors and races, can dwell together in true republican harmony, and honor if the same policy of equality, justice and universal education under which they have dwelt together in Massachusetts be extended to the entire country."

In the afternoon session the first ballot for governor was announced as follows: J. Q. A. Brackett 743, W. W. Crapo 674, John D. Long 1, F. H. Capen 9, W. H. Hattie 1. Brackett was declared nominated, and it was made unanimous.

These other officers nominated were: Lieutenant governor, W. H. H. Hail; treasurer, Hon. George A. Marden, of Lowell, renominated; secretary of state, Henry B. Pierce, of Abington; auditor, Charles R. Ladd, renominated; attorney general, Andrew J. Waterman. After speeches by Senator Hoar and Henry Cabot Lodge the convention adjourned sine die.

MISSISSIPPI REPUBLICANS.

A State Ticket Nominated by the Convention Yesterday.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 25.—The republican state convention, the first assembled in several years, met to-day in the hall of the house of representatives at noon.

B. K. Bruce was appointed temporary chairman. He made a brief, conservative address, advising that if nominations were made they choose such men as would command the confidence of the republicans and at least the respect of the democrats. General Chalmers denounced the democratic party, and advocated the nomination of a state ticket.

Sixty counties were represented by 154 delegates, sixty white, and the remainder colored.

James Hall, who is contesting Catching's seat in congress, opposed nominations, saying that the democrats were firmly intrenched in power in the state, and that it would be folly to attempt to dislodge them.

John R. Lynch strongly favored nominations and believed the ticket had a chance of success.

The convention decided, by a vote of 159 to 95, to put a ticket in the field.

Resolutions endorsing the administration of President Harrison and the platform of the republican party were passed. The administration of the state government was condemned as extravagant. The management of the state penitentiary was severely assailed, and its long continuance declared a disgrace to Christian civilization.

The nominations were as follows: James R. Chalmers for governor, James D. Lynch for lieutenant governor, M. C. Mollison (colored), for secretary of state, John S. Jones for treasurer.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

Commissioner Roosevelt's Opinion of Its Possible Repeal.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Speaking of the attacks being made on the civil service law and the likelihood of an attempt being made by congress for its repeal, Commissioner Roosevelt, in an interview yesterday, said: "The repeal of the law, or the failure to appropriate for its enforcement twice the amount of money now appropriated would be an immense evil. For any congressman to attack civil service reform would be an evil act."

"Do you think these attacks come from any powerful source?" was asked.

"They come from three classes of men. Those who cannot get office and probably could not, comfort themselves by attacking civil service reform. Those whose political power depends upon nothing but their capacity for peddling political patronage are of course opposed to it. The other class is composed of dull people, deluded by the other two."

"Do you think there is any danger of a repeal of the law?"

"No, for, if nothing else stood in the way, the president's veto would prevent this. The president would certainly veto an act repealing the law."

"May congress not fail to make the appropriation?"

"I have too much faith in the majority of the members of congress to believe that such a thing will happen."

He Wants to Secure Entire Control of the Northern Pacific.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Mail and Express, in a railroad article, says: It is quite possible that all may be peace and harmony at the Northern Pacific meeting, but it will not be of a lion and lamb character. THE CHICAGO DISASTER.

The Drunken Engineer Had a Narrow Escape From Lynching.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Seth Twombly, engineer of the freight engine which last evening crashed into the suburban train on the Rock Island, had a narrow escape from being lynched. The crowd pursued him, but he escaped. He was arrested this morning. He is the son of the master mechanic of the road. He is known to be a hard drinker, and it is asserted that he was so drunk last night that he had to be lifted into his cab. Others declare that he was sober. He says he saw neither the suburban train nor the red light of the semaphore across the tracks.

Gus Mulcahy, one of the victims, died of his injuries this morning.

THE CRONIN TRIAL.

A Change To Be Made in the Mode of Summoning Jurors.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—At the opening of the Cronin case this afternoon the defense moved that the jurymen hereafter be drawn in the regular way, instead of by special venire. A long argument followed. At the conclusion of the arguments Judge McConnell said that he had not been entirely pleased with the men who had been examined and added: "I am going to make a change to a certain extent in the mode of summoning the jurors for this case, and I necessarily must adjourn for a day, in order to give the bailiffs a chance to visit the whole county and all classes and bring in representative citizens."

THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS STOLEN

A Number of Shots Fired, but No One Killed—Posses in Pursuit of the Highwaymen—The Customary Audacity.

MOBILE, Ala., Sept. 25.—The Mobile & Ohio southbound [illegible] train was held up at [illegible] this morning [illegible] robbers [illegible] Mississippi [illegible] north of [illegible]. Just before [illegible] the [illegible] men [illegible] behind the tender [illegible] covered the engineer and fireman with revolvers. The robbers covered [illegible].

The robbers ordered the engineer under penalty of death to pull out and stop a [illegible] two miles below. [illegible] the train [illegible] that the express and mail cars should be on the further side of the bridge from the rest of the train, the bridge being a trestle over a deep creek. This was done.

Then a third robber appeared. They covered the express messenger and compelled him to dump the contents of the safe into a sack. He managed, however, to secrete $1[illegible]0. They got $3[illegible].

Alongside the express car door was a pile of $70,000 of [illegible] money en route to Florida, which the robbers failed to notice.

Then the robbers [illegible] the express man get out of the car and [illegible] them to the mail car. W. C. B[illegible], the mail agent, suspected that a robbery was going on and retreated into a baggage car with a [illegible] of registered packages of mail. Just as he stepped to the end door of the car, the robbers seized him.

The robber leader, supposed to be Bunch, faced him, pistol in hand, and [illegible] Bell [illegible] "I [illegible] have said [illegible] dump those [illegible] left arm." There were twenty-four packages and Bell dumped them as requested. The robber made Bell hand him the registered pouch which [illegible] carried with him. The pouch was made up at Meridian and the value of its contents is unknown.

Just then Pullman Conductor [illegible], armed with a Winchester, came out and shouted: "What's the matter?" The robber fired two shots at him, crying: "Get in there, you [illegible]. I see what's the matter." The train was then allowed to proceed, and all the robbers disappeared. A posse has been sent out in pursuit.

The leader of the train robbers is believed to be Rube Burrows, a noted desperado, who [illegible] the [illegible] in the north part of the state a [illegible] ago. At that time it was believed that he was organizing a gang to hold up some train, and the Mobile & Ohio Company anticipated an attack and armed all its train hands with Winchester rifles. This was made public, and it was doubtless what the robber referred to this morning when he said during the progress of robbing the mail car: "The Mobile & Ohio [illegible] to hold up a train and I wanted to show them that I could do it."

BOLD ROBBERY ON THE SANTA FE.

An Express Train Held Up and $10,000 Secured.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 25.—Last night as the north bound Santa Fe train was pulling out of Crowley, ten miles south of this city, three men boarded the train and two others jumped on the locomotive. The robbers then [illegible] the engine [illegible] express car [illegible] from the rest of the train and ordered the engineer to pull it [illegible] a mile further. The express messenger was then compelled to show the robbers the money. They took two bags said to contain $5000 each, overlooking three or four other packages.

The train returned at midnight and a posse of twenty men started in pursuit of the robbers, who had taken a westerly course.

BANKERS IN CONVENTION.

A Vast Amount of Wealth Represented at the Kansas City Meeting.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 25.—The annual convention of the American Bankers' Association met here to-day. It is the largest convention ever held, the bankers fully 1000 being present from all parts of the country.

After the preliminary speeches of official welcome and response, President Parsons delivered the opening address. He traced the development of banking in America from the colonial times to the present. He recommended that the convention consider the following topics: International coin regulation, uniform bill of lading, uniform paper for drawing bills of exchange and national clearing houses.

President St. John of the Mercantile National bank addressed the convention on legal tender coinage. The speaker had one proposition to make on the subject. It was that an act be adopted by congress which should do away as rapidly as convenient with United States legal tender notes and open the United States mints to the free coinage of silver.

The convention was called to order by President Parsons, of St. Louis.

Addresses of welcome were made by Governor Francis and Mayor Davenport and responded to by Mr. Parsons, who spoke of the growth of the banking system.

William P. St. John, of New York, read an able paper on legal tender. He opposed free coinage and outlined a substitute proposition that the secretary of the treasury be required to buy and coin $4,000,000 worth of silver bullion each month, providing not more than 99½ cents or 412½ grains of silver be the amount of silver to be contained in a silver dollar; that with the coinage of silver the legal tender notes of the government be withdrawn dollar for dollar as the silver is issued, and that gold and silver certificates be made legal tenders. Referred to the committee.

At this point the interstate commerce commissioners were brought in, escorted by Major William Warner. The commissioners responded with short speeches to the call made upon them by the delegates.

In answer to loud calls for Warner, the ex-congressman was introduced by the president as the man who don't want an office. The major asked to be excused from making a speech.

After the transaction of some routine business the convention adjourned until to-morrow.

A grand banquet was given them this evening, at which covers were laid for 200 guests.

A Mysterious Murder.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—A Chinaman was found dead last night on Sacramento street. A man was walking up the street when he stumbled across the body of the murdered man. Blood was still oozing from a terrible gash over the right eye and life could not have been long extinct as the body was still warm. Several theories are advanced as to the motive for the murder. While some think he was killed by a countryman during a quarrel, others incline to believe he was beaten to death by hoodlums.

TWO MILLION DOLLARS WASTED.

Failure of a Gigantic Mining Scheme in California.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A Times special from Buffalo says: One of the largest mining enterprises of late years has collapsed and the net loss is $2,000,000. The enterprise alluded to is the Big Bend Tunnel and Mining Company, with the principal office in this city and a branch at Big Bend, Butte county, California. The field of operations is [illegible]. The capital stock of the company is $10,000,000—$[illegible] 000,000 has been paid in, and such almost beyond redemption, it is feared, by the stockholders.

The president of the company is Hon. Roy S. Pierce, M. D., of this city. Dr. Pierce is the head of the enterprise and owns from 60 to 70 per cent. of the stock.

The shareholders are widely known throughout the country and some of them are doubtless very [illegible] over their expected vast income [illegible] be derived from dividends of stock in the Big Bend scheme.

The Feather river in Butte county, California, is rich in its deposits of gold and the north fork of the river, called Big Bend, was always considered especially rich in the way of gold deposits in its gravelly bed. About five years ago Dr. Pierce organized the Big Bend Tunnel and Mining Company. The scheme was to divert the stream from its natural bed through a huge tunnel, thus exposing rich gold deposits supposed to be lying along the bottom of the river. The bed has been drained and contains far more gravel and boulders than gold. So many are the boulders, in fact, that it costs as much to get them out of the way as the gold found amounts to.

In an official bulletin announcing the failure of the scheme Dr. Pierce says: "But after all our efforts, and much as we regret to acknowledge the fact, at present we see no prospect of realizing our former expectation with respect to these mines."

The Belford, Clarke & Co. Failure.

Similar attachments were also issued in Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Connecticut, where Belford, Clarke & Co. have assets. Other attachments were also issued.

REUNION OF VETERANS

The Society of the Army of the Tennessee.

A SPEECH BY GENERAL SHERMAN

The War of the Rebellion the Hardest War That Was Ever Fought—The Negro Must Be Permitted to Vote

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—The twenty-second [illegible] of the [illegible] [illegible] Howard and Dodge [illegible] a business meeting [illegible] to Cole [illegible] Hall, [illegible] was held.

General Sherman, taking the chair, [illegible] [illegible] routine character [illegible] [illegible] Howard, Hickenlooper, Noble and others.

The grand event was the meeting at Music hall this evening. The society paraded to the hall escorted by the local military organizations, the streets being crowded [illegible] veterans [illegible] by colored lights. The hall was [illegible] illuminated by colored lights, [illegible] beautifully decorated, and the crowd was enormous.

Welcoming addresses were made by Mayor Mosby and Governor Foraker.

When General Sherman rose to reply every one in the house cheered, shouted and waved handkerchiefs until he was compelled to signal for order.

In the course of his speech, General Sherman said: "We fought the hardest war ever fought on earth. A larger amount of results were accomplished from that war than from any Caesar and Napoleon war. We made peace on a condition [illegible] raised the standard of our nationality a thousand fold. We lost nothing but slavery—the people in the South put their [illegible] on the wrong card and lost. [Cheers.] Now they are betting on another card. They consented to amendments to the constitution as a point of concession for not being otherwise punished, and they came back into the Union with a [illegible] fifths vote for their representation in congress instead of three fifths. It isn't right, it isn't honest, it isn't honorable. It isn't such as a soldier [Cheers] [illegible] knight will do. Therefore the negroes must have the rights the constitution gives them, or the states must be deprived of that proportion of their representation in congress [illegible] won't be over until that is done. [Cheers.] [illegible] It is time that something was done and our rulers should handle that proposition. I [illegible] state [illegible] take its course."

Colonel House of St. Louis, and others spoke briefly.

THE PENSION OFFICE.

Major Warner Formally Declines the Commissionership.

DEER PARK, Sept. 25.—Major Warner of Missouri has finally decided to decline the office of commissioner of [illegible] tendered him by the president. The letter of declination was written September 16, but at the urgent solicitation of the president Major Warner agreed to reconsider. To-day, however, after a consultation with his business partners he telegraphed that he must adhere to his original decision. The letter is therefore made public.

In it he said that he appreciated the high compliment paid him and, did not the business engagements [illegible] he had no right to break forbid it, no personal sacrifice would prevent his acceptance.

PRIVATE DALZELL'S TREACHERY.

He Gives Out for Publication a Private Letter From Tanner.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25.—The Republic will print to-morrow from Caldwell, Ohio, a special dispatch giving a copy of a letter said to have been received by Private Dalzell from Commissioner Tanner under date of September 11. In it Tanner says that he is taking no part in the duties of his office, holding himself on leave until his successor qualifies.

He refers to the orders issued while he was acting, which he still thinks were good ones; namely, that the 3000 men on the pension roll at less than $4 a month should all swear that they had had a medical examination within a year and be ordered for examination before their home board with a view of putting them at least at $4; and, second, [illegible] in the settlement of pension claims the pay of a private [illegible] in good standing should amount to as much as that of an officer.

The acting commissioner, says Tanner, according to the papers, revoked both of these orders under the instruction of Noble and Bussey. Tanner complains of this, and asks how they are going to make the boys believe there is no change in policy.

He also complains of Acting Commissioner Smith's issuing an order stopping all re-ratings.

Tanner adds that he did not resign until the president and Secretary Noble both said to him that the report of the investigating committee contained no word which could impeach his honesty in the slightest degree. Then he had to consider whether he was man enough to decline to continue in the position where he knew his official superiors did not desire him.

"I have not the slightest doubt," adds he, "that I would have been removed had I not resigned."

Tanner speaks in a general way of his belief that Secretary Noble was determined on his removal, etc., and says that all they can charge him with is too much liberality and too much speed in granting pensions.

Of the future, Tanner says that he knows nothing yet.

He closes with an appeal to Dalzell not to give him cause to regret his freedom in writing this letter by making any portion of it public.

A CASE IN POINT.

In our forefathers' days, pimples were attributed to diseased blood. But modern medicine has demonstrated that rich food does not create eruptions by fouling the blood, but retards digestion, which makes the stomach torpid and the circulation sluggish, and in turn causes an enfeebled action of the pores, which congest or become pimply. The modern theory, therefore, is not to treat the blood, but the stomach and liver, and it is under this new idea that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla was conceived. It has wiped out the blood disease theory of pimples of the old sarsaparillas. A case in point: I have had for years spells of indigestion and dyspepsia and tried nearly everything. Finally I took one of the leading sarsaparillas. It did not help me, but caused pimples to break out on my face, which I was told was caused by the potash it contained. Hearing that Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla did not contain mineral and might act differently, I sent for it. The pimples disappeared immediately and I have now after months had no return of the old spells. It is a cure for indigestion and dyspepsia and the attendant face eruptions.

A PLEA FOR THE CONSTITUTION

Overworked and Underpaid Men Never Yield the Highest Service.

OLYMPIA, Wn., Sept. 24

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

It was my good fortune to be a spectator at our late constitutional convention when the "judiciary" article was under consideration. I was [illegible] inclined to a cheap system. This article was discussed with great fairness and delibera[illegible]. It would be well for the constitution if every man in the territory could have been there and received the education I did from those sev[illegible] able considerate men. It was shown that all [illegible] states had treated the judiciary system or [illegible] governments most niggardly, to the after [illegible] of their people who were frequently [illegible] to rebel against all law as a relief from [illegible] suffering before this blunder in their consti[illegible] could be remedied in a peaceful way. [illegible] let us look at our own constitution [illegible] it will start up at once. As they [illegible] now so they will remain as pre[illegible] for the future. Consider then, the impor[illegible] of a correct and clear determination. On [illegible] the that "two heads are better than [illegible]" are better than three. Overworked [illegible] can not do their best work, and [illegible] rarely ever procures and keeps [illegible]. The sum of $4000 per annum is none [illegible] to an able supreme judge, and [illegible] in ourselves we must look out [illegible] they [illegible] in my son[illegible] law life in California the [illegible] so slow for the progressive [illegible] courts could be [illegible] "Dis[illegible] courts at [illegible] California amended her courts [illegible] to settle [illegible], and we have followed her [illegible] matured and tried plan [illegible] constitution we dispense with thirty [illegible] judges whose estimated salaries paid [illegible] amount in the aggregate to not less than [illegible] per annum for bad work in most cases. [illegible] take the place of [illegible] commissioners. Every lawyer, notary [illegible] and justice of the peace in Washington [illegible] now a court commissioner at the will [illegible] when necessity requires it, but only [illegible] according to their work. Our constitu[illegible] county, by the judge of the superior court [illegible] there may be appointed in [illegible] one or more court commissioners, not exceeding three in number." [illegible] commissioners are only appointed upon [illegible] and then their compensation is to be [illegible] to their work—no work no pay—and as [illegible] may determine from time to time. [illegible] will be thirty four county clerks who will [illegible] counties the auditor with his duties [illegible] clerk of the superior court, which in [illegible] probate court, as we have seen. In this office fees have been usually paid the incumbent to his advantage of $3000—to $5 000—per annum, as he was located in a fair sized to big city county. The salary system is in behalf of economy. It is the protective clerks in large counties who will cry [illegible], the people for the advantage is theirs. It works well in California. The clerk of the supreme court shall receive such compensation by salary only as shall be provided by law. I once expected to be a clerk of a supreme court—fee $10 000 per annum. Does any one so doubt our legislature as to think they will throw away the people's money in that way? Governor's salary—yes, $4000. Does any one think that a governor can get through his office and get away with a dollar of that sum over his fair and natural expenses? I never wish to see such a man in the chair. Other officers only fairly paid. Yes but Oregon pays less. Yes Oregon pays less but Oregon could have paid four times as much and saved money by it. Her poor, [illegible] offices nobody wanted. Nobody paid any attention to her underpaid officials or cared any thing about them, until one fine day Oregon awoke. Where are my school lands? she cried. Where are my stumps that lie on every hill [illegible] and left no sign.

Now fellow citizens of Washington you have a good constitution before you, fairly liberal and liberal in [illegible]. Other states where salaries are fixed are not over paid and in many cases the legislature is left to fix the salaries. Payment in fees is found to be the most onerous tax that can be fixed on a people by the rough political riders who direct official life. The constitution avoids as far as it can, with you is the rest. As you value our prosperity, vote "Constitution, yes!" is the advice of one you have always favored and who has no desire but our general prosperity.

BIG HAULS OF SALMON.

Something About the Famous Fishing Expedition of 1886 Where the Record Was Beaten

Post Intelligencer, September 23.

The recent large catches of salmon made on Puget sound remind a gentleman who was on the Sound in 1886 of a time when two seines of George T Myers off Hatt island took in two days 28 000 salmon—a catch never equaled before or since. The dates were October 27 and 28. The product of one seine on the 27th was 6000. The other seine was hauled at the same time but through the verdancy of the manager of the seine, who was too anxious to get the "sea and all" within it hauled too close on his cork line, which broke and thousands of the finny tribe escaped. Nevertheless, his single haul brought him some 4600 salmon. Captain Low of the steamer Nellie said that from appearances he must have had double the fish in his seine before it broke.

The late Captain Charley Low and Mr Myers were old friends and many banters they had. Myers had heard that there were fish down the Sound near Hatt island. Having some misgivings as to the result in a blind chase he jocularly offered Captain Low $ a day or 1 cent freight on each fish he brought back from the product of his seines—either of which he could accept. Captain Low concluded he would make three round trips for $30 which was accepted, and one morning the Nellie took Myers and his Indian all [illegible] with their outfits to Hatt island where they arrived about [illegible] A M and immediately commenced fishing. At noon there had been counted on the steamer Nellie 10 500 silver salmon. On the return as the steamer Nellie neared Myers's cannery Captain Low remarked:

"Last night when we were going down I [illegible] Myers [illegible] I thought he wouldn't get a fish but now I am trying to kick the other fellow for not taking the 1 cent offer." Eighteen thousand of the same lot of fish were sold to H. L. Levy at the Seattle Bazaar, for 1 cent more than the cost and freight.

A repetition of the feelings of Captain Low are felt just now by the owners of the steamer Ranier who had a similar offer by contract or piece. Last Saturday night the Ranier brought up 1 3 0 salmon and now has to make two more trips as per contract to make this much money. At the Myers cannery there are salmon three feet deep and twenty five feet square, and the way salmon fins are flying in the [illegible] wharf is a wonder. The [illegible] of the Mongolian and the agility with which he handles fish and cans makes it a beehive of industry. The Myers cannery has cans enough to pack 1 000 cases. On Wednesday Mr Myers shipped by the Union Pacific [illegible] steamers Idaho and Michigan 4 60 cases. The steamer Idaho will call there on Tuesday again and take 4600 cases. These shipments mostly go to the South and south east of the United states where a market for this brand has long been established.

The steamer Ranier came up from Skagit Head again last night with 1[illegible] salmon for Myers' cannery. Part was given to the Samish cannery, in which Mr Myers is interested.

NOTES OF HOQUIAM

HOQUIAM, Wn., Sept. 20, 1889

The whole republican ticket, county judicial and state is considered strong and it is believed will easily carry the Chehalis county.

The work on the railroad is dragging a little but will probably keep abreast with the development of the coal mines at the other end of the route.

While business in the whole Gray's harbor country is at [illegible] nothing seems to interfere with the [illegible] enthusiasm of any of our towns in [illegible] this county.

The fine business block of the irresistible Kegley and the handsome bank building of Mr Arnold are reaching completion while the new post office is approaching completion.

Special steamers were run touching at the harbor towns and great processions with torches, bands and decorations revived the memory and scenes of old time campaigns in the states.

The nomination of Mr J. C. Wooding of Aberdeen as senatorial candidate vice John Soule declined on account of the demands of business it is believed has healed the wounds of local factions.

The republican candidate for congress, Hon J L Wilson, of Spokane has been [illegible] here and two rousing meetings one at Aberdeen and one at Montesano demonstrated the strength of the republican party.

The Gray's Harbor Company has sold nearly all of the first plat and will clear and plat eighty acres more in the near future. The wharf connecting this property to deep water is completed and is pronounced a substantial piece of work.

Hoquiam is growing, building improving and increasing more rapidly in real estate values than any town in the state. Judge Holcomb, Ekland and company have sold out their entire interest to Mr Whitney and some Tacoma gentlemen for about $30 000 in company with two or three other persons have gone to South Bend to improve their splendid property on the Willapa harbor.

The democrats have just closed a series of meetings in the county having held one in Aberdeen and one in Montesano. The meetings were large and noisy but it seems to be the popular notion that Governor Semple talked very much too long and at too wide a range and that Mr Griffitts's declaration that there was no difference between the republican and democratic parties on the tariff question except in a matter of schedule was anything but pleasant to democrats who hold to politics as a principle and not as a re[illegible]. Mr Griffitts talks an indefinite deal of nothing," but on the tariff question he is very lamb-like.

CASTLE ROCK ITEMS

CASTLE ROCK, W. T., Sept. 21.—William Appleton, who runs the shingle mill in Castle Rock, Bills mill met with quite a serious accident last Wednesday morning. The citizens of this [illegible] have lately made some great improvements on Cowlitz avenue.

The two shingle mills [illegible] are running on full time.

William Whittle is building a neat residence for himself on Kerby street.

J. H. Antrim was [illegible] stop of the Christian church here last Sunday.

[illegible] & [illegible] photographers of Tacoma are in town and will in [illegible] stay.

There will be a citizens meeting in Hayward's hall [illegible] day night in regard to [illegible] our town.

Mr Ingersoll's Creed

During a recent lecture some one asked Colonel Ingersoll what he believed. The reply was: "I believe in [illegible]." This was to an audience of 2000 people at $1 per head admission.

EAST SUBURB GLEANINGS.

The Salvationists Turn Out and Celebrate Their Legal Victory.

Death of an Old Pioneer Woman—Back From the East—School District No. 21—The Attendance.

It was expected that the Salvation Army would be out in full force last night and the expectation was in no way disappointed. At an early hour a detachment arrived from the West Side and marched to the barracks. It was plain to be seen that a double barreled shot was to be fired at East Portland, the devil and the common council.

The streets were thronged by people to take in the circus. At about 8 o'clock a tremendous uproar was heard at the barracks and a shout run through the crowd: "They are coming, they are coming." Then with the discordant music, the East Portland division supported in the rear by the West Side contingent marched along Fourth to N street. Here they gave Councilman Martin a serenade and returned along Fourth road to their barracks on [illegible] street.

This unusual display was in consequence of their victory over the city. But another ordinance will be prepared and introduced into the city council next Monday and the city attorney thinks he can draw one that will be valid.

DEATH OF MRS. SARAH STEVENSON.

Mrs Sarah Stevenson, an old resident of this place, and an early settler in this country, died at Oregon City on the 24th, aged 68. She was the mother of Mrs. D. Baugher of East Portland, John Stevenson of Yakima, Mrs Wills of Wilsburg, Mrs Miller of Sellwood and Mrs. Chase, of Oregon City. The remains will arrive here on the train from Oregon City to day at 10 20 A M and the funeral services will take place from the Second Day Adventist church, Tenth and [illegible] st, 10 30 A M to day. The remains will be interred in Lone Fir cemetery.

[illegible] ATTENDANCE.

The attendance in the East Portland schools, district 21 is already increasing very rapidly. On the first day the enrollment was 1000 and at the end of the first week this had increased to 1100. The different departments of the schools are in working order and the reports from all the schools are of an encouraging character. The teachers are earnest and faithful educators while the city superintendent has a genius for school management, hence good work is expected of them. They are supported by a school board composed of practical business men.

ANOTHER HOTEL IN PROSPECT.

As there will be between fifty and seventy five men employed in the sawmill to be erected on Clinton & McCoy's ground, parties have made arrangements to build a hotel in that vicinity for their accommodation. It will be three stories, will contain about fifty rooms and will stand on the east side of Fifth street and at the south end of the long bridge over Stephens slough. It is understood the building will be put up about the time the sawmill plant gets in operation.

THEY ARE PRACTICING.

The Willamette baseball club are practicing every afternoon on Clinton & McCoy's grounds and will play the Montana club next Saturday and Sunday with their full nine. The boys have made up their minds to win both games and they will without doubt do it.

RETURNED FROM THE EAST.

Mr I. A. Hunt and wife have arrived from their Eastern trip. Mr. Hunt went to New York several months ago and Mr Hunt [illegible] went E. [illegible] Chicago. He visited Washington City, New York and other prominent cities in the Eastern states.

RETURNED HOME.

Mr and Mrs C J Ward have returned from Snowden Springs and [illegible] Springs. They were at both these places and Mrs Ward, who is in very feeble health, is much improved.

A POLICY NATIONAL, NOT SELFISH

New York Tribune

In the slow growth of a nation all parts and all industries cannot advance with equal step. Some must remain [illegible] for [illegible] any [illegible]. The Eastern states were in position to get the [illegible] of benefit from [illegible] but now Western [illegible] [illegible] and mining development in every part of the country. [illegible] for twenty years [illegible] to [illegible] Yes the [illegible] experience [illegible] on what do you say that the work of developing a [illegible] It is one of [illegible] Eastern men whose industries have been built up by the protective tariff now show any disposition to deprive others of its advantages. In spite of many selfish temptations few Eastern men have made consent to such a course. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania stand by the republican policy as firmly as they did when the cream of all the benefits came to them. The popular majorities are rather larger in Pennsylvania as time passes, and rather smaller in Massachusetts, because in the latter state immigration of foreigners and migration of Americans to the West have changed the population considerably. But the overwhelming preponderance of public sentiment in both states is just where it was. So of other eastern states. Connecticut is not more close and uncertain than it was many years ago. New York was carried for Harrison but twenty years ago voted against Grant. But the weight of the Empire state in national councils has at decisive moments been cast for the policy which built up and still sustains its manufacturing industries. The people are not ingrates. They do not want to deny to their sons and brothers in western and southern states the benefits they have so long enjoyed. To the majority in eastern states the appeal of free traders is simply a temptation to sell the nation's growth and greatness for a possible selfish gain. They do not believe in the gain, but if they did would nevertheless vote for the nation's greatness.

ENFORCING THE LAW IN ALASKA

Collector Pracht Makes an Important Seizure of Whisky.

The Alaskan, Sitka.

On Monday afternoon September 2, at Sitka, Alaska Collector Max Pracht armed with a search warrant issued by Judge Keatley accompanied by his deputy, entered Otto Nelson's saloon on the south side of Lincoln street and made an examination of the premises. Finding a number of bottles of whisky and wine behind the bar he took possession of them. The collector having reason to believe that an additional quantity of liquors was stored somewhere in the house, demanded of Mr Nelson that he open the door of an adjoining room on the south side of the building. The request being refused and the collector believing that resistance was [illegible] at once swore in five bystanders—[illegible] Haley, John Haley, W H Tracht and [illegible]—as inspectors of customs on temporary duty. The collector then forced the door and found inside the room forty gallons of whisky in kegs and a large lot of brandy. The whole of the liquors were immediately taken possession of and removed to the store room in the custom house, where they now are. Their wholesale value is about $600.

The seizure was made in strict conformity with the instructions from the treasury department and in accordance with the organic act and the executive orders relating thereto.

While naturally the determined attitude assumed by the collector has created much discussion this being the first seizure of this character since the year 1881 the community in general commend his action. For many years past the law has been openly defied and the customs department has shown little or no inclination to insist upon an observance of the prohibitory enactment.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, SEPT. 26.

INDISCRIMINATE SERVICE PENSION.

Senator Ingalls at a recent reunion of veteran soldiers held in Arkansas City, said: "The soldier has earned all the present wealth of the country. Without him there would have been no treasury no nation. He is entitled to his percentage of it." General Benjamin F. Butler thinks when a country is rich enough every soldier who fought in its wars ought to have a pension. John W. Mason, of Washington, commissioner of internal revenue, declared himself in favor of a service pension for every honorably discharged soldier. Major Warner, who was offered the appointment of commissioner of pensions to succeed Tanner, in his speech at the recent Milwaukee National Encampment of the G. A. R., predicted that the day was not far distant when an honorable discharge from the Union army or navy would be all the evidence required to secure a pension to its holders. We quote:

> A pension given as a reward for services to the state is surely as good a ground of property as any security for money advanced to the state, said the great English statesman, Burke.
> Let the bondholders of the country remember that the men who rendered their securities valuable; the men who have ever insisted that they be paid to the uttermost farthing, principal and interest of the money advanced by them to the state, let them remember that these men have claims upon the state at least equal to that of the bondholders. Let those who inveigh against pensions remember that it was the "boys in blue" who, by their trials, suffering, and death bequeathed to them the legacy of liberty and union, insuring to them and their children the blessings of free institutions, under which they enjoy a greater prosperity, a larger liberty, a higher civilization, and a purer Christianity than ever before enjoyed by a people.

It does not seem to us that this argument in favor of an indiscriminate service pension will stand examination. The intelligent great majority of the thoughtful members of the G. A. R. we know do not favor an indiscriminate service pension. They favor the dependent pension bill; they urge the multiplication not only of Federal soldiers' homes, but of state soldiers' homes for dependent men. The G. A. R., we believe would be entirely content, if the Federal and state governments would together enact such measures as would secure the Union veterans, as fast as they became really dependent, against the almshouse, or a life of wretchedness and privation without the almshouse. This is what the G. A. R. as we understand it, ask of the government. The last national encampment declined to approve a service pension of $12 per month for every soldier, but decided to support the dependent or disability pension bill.

There is much force in the plea of the G. A. R., that gross injustice has been wrought by the abuse of the arrears of pension bill. The chance of obtaining a lump sum of money, amounting in many cases to several thousand dollars, tempted thousands of men to file a pension claim that were neither morally nor legally entitled to relief, because they were not crippled by wounds or disease so as to make them in any sense disabled for self support in the present or to remotely threaten them with disability in future. It is a notorious fact that thousands of men are on the pension roll to-day for wounds or disease acquired in service that are in full health of mind and body, who conduct business successfully, and are physically able to-day to spend weeks hunting and fishing in a rough country and exposed to rough weather. The associates of these stalwart pensioners would never suspect them of any bodily infirmity, and they know them, as men, who not only easily earn a comfortable support, but are often the possessors of a handsome competence, securely invested. To illustrate, we know of a New England lieutenant colonel of volunteers who inherited at least $200,000, and who is worth to-day not less than $300,000. This officer was wounded in the foot in June, 1862, while doing his duty with his regiment. By the time the war was ended he had recovered so completely that he has been able ever since to tramp through the Canadian woods hunting deer, and he makes every year a trip to New Brunswick to take salmon with a fly. He is not only a stalwart man in mind and body, but he is one of the wealthiest men in his state. He applied for a pension after the arrears of pension bill was enacted, and secured it. In our judgment, since a pension is not a bounty for military service at all, but a relief extended not to all soldiers, but only to soldiers, who are wholly or partially disabled for self-support by wounds inflicted or disease incurred in service, the pension granted to this veteran was at least of doubtful legality, and was absolutely destitute of moral equity. Another case was that of a New England merchant, with $75,000, who served a few months in the army, never was under fire, resigned and when the arrears of pension bill passed tried to get a pension on the ground of a severe catarrh, in consequence of his military service.

There is not a county in the country that does not contain a number of able bodied, well-to-do veterans, who sought and generally obtained a place on the pension roll when the arrears of pension bill became a law. On the other hand, there are thousands who did most faithful and gallant service that never sought a pension because they could not without perjury pretend that they suffered from any disability of mind or body that dated back to the military service for its cause. These men are poor, broken by sickness, misfortune or toil: they are dependent or soon will be, and yet as honest men they have not sworn to a lie in order to get a pension. To cover the cases of these veterans, who are morally worthy of government relief, the G. A. R. desire the passage of the dependent pension bill. The indiscriminate service pension bill is "a horse of another color," which is saddled, bridled, mounted and ridden by the Washington claim agents, who include in their ranks George E. Lemon, of the National Tribune, a paper that, assuming to voice the sentiment of the Union veterans, is really the organ of a "pension ring," of which Corporal Tanner was but a cat's paw, whether he knew it or not.

Major Warner quotes Burke, but Burke was speaking of the varied and peculiar pension system of England, which is unknown and impossible under our form of government. In England Lord Salisbury to-day could pension Tennyson or Browning for eminent literary services, even as Sir Robert Peel pensioned Tom Hood and Charles Lamb; he might pension an artist, a great inventor or any other person that seemed, within his discretion, as head of the government to be worthy of its bounty; but in our country the voting of pensions under general law is limited to soldiers whose disability dates back to service, while special pensions are voted to the widows of presidents and distinguished soldiers.

Nor is there any force to the argument of Ingalls and Warner that because the soldier saved the nation he earned all its present wealth, and congress should therefore pass an indiscriminate service pension bill. The nation was saved by the soldier in the field, the statesman, the taxpayers, the tillers of the soil, the women, the patriotic old and young who according to their ability and opportunity within the army or behind the army created and maintained the moral, spiritual, social and physical forces that were indispensable to victory. The right of the government to put every able bodied man, high or low, into the field, was as clear as its right to tax enormously every man's property to support the war, and faith in free institutions and love for the flag resided as much in the hearts of thousands of people who put their savings into our doubtful bonds as it did in the hearts of the soldiers. That faith furnished war with its sinews, and it is as demagogic to attempt to separate the soldier in the army from the other vast patriotic forces behind the army as it is to separate Lincoln from Grant; to give Washington all the glory and ignore Franklin and Robert Morris.

THE ISSUE IN WASHINGTON.

In Washington the tariff is under discussion as the main question of the campaign. Republicans are pitching the contest on the issue between the two parties as developed in the national campaign of last year. Democrats do not meet the issue openly, yet take care not to declare directly against protection. The nascent industries of Washington stand in need of protection, and republicans are showing that the democratic policy would deprive them of it. Hence the democratic policy is characterized by republicans as a free trade policy, and this moves the democratic brethren to wrath. "Once for all," exclaims the Centralia News, "let the voters understand that free trade is the biggest of all the campaign lies used by designing capitalists and wily politicians for the purpose of defeating the party of retrenchment and reform. The leaders of democracy have advocated the abolition of the duty on certain raw material that cannot be produced in America, and the lowering of the tariff so as to prevent the building of huge trusts and monopolies." This, in its innocence, or effrontery, may well awaken admiration.

"The leaders of the democracy have advocated the abolition of the duty on certain raw material that cannot be produced in America." Wool, then cannot be produced in America. Again: "The leaders of democracy have advocated the lowering of the tariff so as to prevent the building of huge trusts and monopolies." This, then, is the explanation of the action taken by the leaders of democracy in maintaining the sugar duties at the rates urged by the members of the great "trust" at New York. Here indeed is light on the tariff question—light with which the country never was favored before.

Republicans of Washington are right in calling the democratic party a free trade party, since it proposes free trade in raw material, under which term all the leading products of Washington are included. True, the democratic party has not proposed free trade for Eastern manufacturers and Southern planters, but it has proposed free trade for states like Oregon and Washington, whose products fall chiefly under the denomination of "raw materials." The people of Washington, if we mistake not see this very plainly, and they will show by their votes that they see it.

THE EIGHT HOUR SYSTEM.

The American Federation of Labor favors the eight hour system, and by federal law eight hours is a day's labor to all working men employed by the government. Yet the practical failure of the eight hour system is illustrated by the fact that Major Handbury, U. S. A., the engineer in charge of the construction of the jetty at the mouth of the Columbia, hires and pays his men by the hour. The men are paid 27 cents an hour, and in this way the man willing to work twelve hours and the "advanced thinker" who prefers to work three hours and devote the remainder of his day to recreation, esthetic culture or alcoholic experiments, are both satisfied. Major Handbury's engineering work is much of it of a character that would be ruined if he hired his men by the day and the day was limited to eight hours; so he meets the difficulty by hiring his men by the hour. At the Chicago parade and picnic of the federation of labor, held July 4, 1889, a letter was read from United States Senator Farwell, a keen man of business, who gave the "eight hour" demagogues and fantastic philosophers this hard nut to crack:

> In the case of manufactured articles like boots and shoes and other articles that are made and transported from one part of the country to the other, you can very well see that your purpose can only be brought about by the united action of the laboring people of the whole country because if the laboring people of Philadelphia work ten hours in making these articles, and those in Chicago but eight, the Philadelphia manufacturers would undersell the Chicago men.

The advocates of the eight-hour movement ask the workingmen to sacrifice two hours' pay every working day for the benefit of the unemployed. This is absurd, for any man of common sense knows that in the long run labor cannot get as much for eight hours' work as for ten hours. You might as well argue that ten inches make a foot, and two feet and one-half a yard. Of course, the workingman would have two more hours a day to himself for his own improvement and recreation, coupled with the feeling of benevolent satisfaction that he had diminished his income by 20 per cent. to give employment to his fellows out of a job. But Utopia is not with us, and until it is a general eight-hour day of labor, the country over, will continue to be what it is now, a dream, not a fact. Self-interest sways the millions of labor altogether too strongly to expect that they will burn a hole in their own pockets in order to help enforced idleness to employment.

It is noteworthy fact that the ablest English radicals, who have devoted their lives to the political enfranchisement and social improvement of workingmen, decline to support the eight-hour movement. In January, 1889, Mr. John Morley, member of parliament from Newcastle, was waited upon by a delegation of workingmen and interrogated as to whether he would champion the eight-hour movement. Mr. Morley declined, and soon after announced his readiness to forfeit his seat for Newcastle, rather than consent to support the eight-hour movement. Lord Rosebery, Mr. Labouchere, Mr. Mundella and other leading English radicals, have also declared themselves opponents of state interference with the hours of labor. In June, 1889, the government, through Lord Salisbury, instructed the British delegates to the international conference on labor legislation, convened by the Swiss federal council, not to discuss the "eight-hour" question. John Morley, when asked if he would pledge himself to vote for making eight hours the maximum working day for all government employes, adduced as proof of the absurdity of the movement an instance of a municipality in the north of England, whose members found that to enforce the eight hours on all their work without reducing wages would "involve an addition to the rates of 1½d. or 2d. in the pound," and this Mr. Morley described as an invasion of the "right of the taxpayer to buy labor at the market value." Mr. Morley is a consistent disciple of Richard Cobden, who, in the debate on the ten-hour bill April 26, 1844, said:

> He would undertake to say that any measure which, while it reduced the hours of labor, had the necessary effect, as any such measure would, under existing circumstances, of reducing the rate of wages in proportion, would be received by the working classes as anything but an acceptable measure. Let it be put honestly before the working classes that if the hours of labor were reduced they must at the same time submit to a reduction of their wages in corresponding proportions; let this but be placed honestly before them, and see whether they would want a ten-hours' bill; not they.

Richard Cobden was a thorough English democrat, a tradesman, a humane employer, a friend of the working masses, a more thorough radical than Bright in all matters of legislation to ameliorate the condition of labor; for, like Bright, his sympathies were with the people rather than the aristocracy, because he sprang from stock that stood for traders, farmers and skilled labor rather than for the nobility or gentry. This ten-hours' bill, opposed by Cobden, was supported by Lord Ashley, afterwards Earl of Shaftesbury, a humanitarian, like Cobden, but sometimes, unlike Cobden, an impracticable humanitarian, a legislative crank. Shaftesbury was a philanthropist, but Cobden was not only a philanthropist, but a political economist, and he regarded the ten-hours' law as a heedless attempt to interfere with fixed economic laws. Mr. Labouchere, the most radical political thinker in England to-day, a man, like Byron, of aristocratic lineage, but democratic principles, is, like his friend Morley, hostile to the eight-hours movement, and announces that he will refuse to consent to introduce into English legislation "the novel principle of limiting the hours of labor by legislative interference." The best thinkers in both England and America, whether they are tories, conservatives, liberals or radicals, whether they are indifferent to the cry of labor or the lifelong friends of the working men, are agreed in the opinion that the eight-hours movement is the baseless fabric of a vision of labor demagogues or socialistic dreamers.

Messrs. Nicolay and Hay in their life of Lincoln seem to desire to impress the reader with the idea that the war-president took no part whatever in the campaign for his re-election. Mr. Charles A. Dana has recently published some personal reminiscences that go to show that Mr. Lincoln did employ certain political methods in the fight, and that the whole war department, under Stanton, was brought to bear to increase the vote of the republican party. That this was done is not to the discredit of Lincoln. Having gone so far in the prosecution of the war, he felt that the safety of the nation depended upon a continuation of the policy which he had inaugurated, and he was justified in using all honorable means to promote the success of the party of which he was the nominee. Mr. Dana says that Lincoln's coolness and confidence upon the night of his re-election showed that he had lost all fear of the result, because he was politician enough to rely upon the work that had been done. The Century "Life of Lincoln" is of great interest, but many facts ignored therein are supplied by Mr. Dana, of the Sun and Mr. Herndon, Lincoln's partner in the practice of law.

Mr. Wallace Mount has been nominated by the republican convention of Washington for superior judge in his district, where he is now district attorney. This is an excellent nomination. Mr. Mount was reared in Oregon, and is a graduate of our state university. He studied law with the firm of Williams, Durham & Thompson, of this city, and practiced here for some time after his admission to the bar of this state, before his removal to Sprague, W. T. He is a gentleman of ability, fine attainments and high character, and should be elected.

Some years ago the land boomers fastened their fangs on Los Angeles and artfully succeeded in creating false values to real estate, and when they had succeeded in sucking their victim dry they folded their tents and moved away. The present owners, according to report, are in distress, and many of them have petitioned the assessors to reduce the valuations upon their property, as taxes are out of all proportion to present actual values. Booms are as explosive as dynamite, and when they burst everybody around feels the effect.

THE PLUMBERS ON A STRIKE.

Reasons Assigned for the Action—The Usual Feeling on the Subject.

The plumbers went on a strike yesterday, and nearly every employing plumber was left to carry on his business himself, or suspend it as he deemed best.

The cause of the trouble is as follows: John F Shea had in his employ a plumber named Fleming a member of the union and another named George who was not a member. George used to be in business here and as the plumbers claim was bitterly opposed to their union and employed non-union men. When he had to go to work, he wished to join the union but was not allowed to do so.

Mr Shea employed him nevertheless and the union called out Fleming, and would not let him work with George. Fleming endeavored to get work with several employing plumbers, but could not find employment. The employers stated their objections to Mr Fleming were that he was a slow workman and that he had a habit of quitting a job without giving notice etc.

The union asserts that the employing plumbers who it appears have also an association, had leagued together to refuse Fleming work. Thereupon the union demanded that Shea discharge George and when he refused to do so the members of the union in the employ of other plumbers struck. They claim that they are justified in this action because Shea is a member of the association to which their employers belong. There is the usual amount of feeling displayed by both sides and both sides claim to be right, and it is no use for an outsider to say which is wrong. The matter will probably be settled soon.

To one not thoroughly informed in the manners and customs of unions it seems unjust that because one man refuses to discharge another, the workmen employed by other men should [illegible]. The plumbers have no grievance on the score of wages as they are paid $4 per day of [illegible] hours, and are furnished with a boy to do the work.

THE STORY OF A BOTTLE

A Note Found in it Tells of the Fate of Four Printers

This telegram appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of the 19th:

SPOKANE FALLS, WN, Sept 18.—A bottle was picked up yesterday on the shore of Lake Pend d'Oreille opposite Hope Idaho, containing a soiled and crumbled note, on which was written with lead pencil:

"September 2, 1889 11 20 A M.—To the Finder: Our boat capsized about half an hour ago. One of our party Thornton is drowned and we are fast wearing out. We are out near the point. For God's sake send us help or report this to our friends at Spokane Falls. Alfred Thornton drowned. Israel Simmons, Charles Scheers, Orlando Beer."

On the reverse side was written by the same hand:

"P. S.—Simmons has just went down for the third time. My God how long can this last. We are fast losing hope. Beer and Scheers."

The men are all printers who left here September 2 going east. Printers here generally believe they are lost, while some think the note was written by one of them as a joke. Scheers' home is at Galesburg Ill. Where the others came from is not known here.

The men were in Portland in June and worked in THE OREGONIAN composing rooms. They have friends in this city who have made inquiries as to their whereabouts but have been unable to learn anything. Thornton is 23 Beer 28 and Simmons and Scheers 23 each.

WAITERS WANT MORE PAY

In Anticipation of Hard Work During the Exposition, They Demand an Increase of Wages.

Most of the waiters in the larger hotels and leading restaurants anticipating a siege of hard work during the exposition, have struck for higher wages. The demands of hotel waiters for $2 50 a day have been acceded to by their employers and no further trouble will occur. No settlement however has yet been reached between restaurant keepers and their waiters.

The first strike was made in the New York restaurant Tuesday evening. A settlement in this case was arrived at later in the evening. Yesterday morning another conference must have been held for before noon the waiters in five or six restaurants asked for a still higher raise. The demand of the waiters now is $4 a day during the exposition and the privilege of retaining their places at the expiration of that time at the present wages.

Several of Freimann's waiters left during the afternoon, and before night quite a number had quit work in others of the larger restaurants.

The disposition of the restaurant keepers is to resist this demand which they consider unreasonable. No difficulty is anticipated in keeping all of the restaurants supplied with help for either the strikers will have to come down a little in their demands or else other waiters will be pressed into service.

WANTS TO FIGHT LA BLANCHE.

Dave Campbell, the Oregon Champion Anxious for a Go With the Marine

Dave Campbell the Oregon champion pugilist, is home from San Francisco and an OREGONIAN reporter asked him yesterday why the match between him and Con Riordan was not made.

"This talk of my unwillingness to fight Riordan is all bosh," said Dave. "The reason why the match was not arranged was he will not fight before the California Athletic club and I do not want to go before the Golden Gate club because I think a man can not get a fair fight there."

"There is talk of a go between you and La Blanche. Will you meet him?"

"I am ready to fight the Marine any day. If they don't think I mean business let the California Athletic Club offer a purse and they will see how quick I will sign to meet him. I had a good opportunity to study the Marine in his battle with Dempsey and I want to fight him before the California club, where the the best man is sure to win."

FROM DOCK TO STEAMER.

A Man Named Peterson in Attempting the Feat Falls Into the River

Shortly after 6 o'clock yesterday evening a young man named Peterson met with a serious fall while attempting to board the steamer Lurline.

Peterson left the employ of the boat Tuesday night and yesterday evening he only went back to pay a friendly visit to his former associates. The steamer was some little distance from the dock and in attempting to jump on to the railing around the lower deck Peterson evidently miscalculated the distance, for he failed to reach it. His feet just touched the railing, and in falling his head struck the guard fracturing the lower jaw. One of the deck hands immediately jumped to the rescue and succeeded in getting Peterson to shore.

The injured man was then taken to St. Vincent hospital where his injuries were attended by Marine Hospital Surgeon Dr Bratton. Beyond the fracture of the jaw and several bruises he escaped luckily. He is resting easy and will come out all right.

NEW BANK AT OREGON CITY

A new bank has been incorporated to do business at Oregon City, its name being the Commercial Bank of Oregon City. Its incorporators are H B [illegible], C D [illegible] and D C Latourette, the first mentioned being a banker in Michigan. The capital stock is $100 000 all paid in. D C Latourette will be president of the new institution. The other officers are not fully determined upon. As soon as it was determined to start a bank they negotiated for property on Main street opposite the post office block on which they will immediately erect a handsome two story brick and stone building. The new bank has good men at its head and as there is room for another bank there, they will find a good field to work in.

FEAST OF ROSH HASHANAH.

The Celebration of the New Year Among the World's Pioneer Monotheists.

The Great Feast of Trumpets—Ten Reasons for the Blowing of the Ram's Horn—Traditions That Cluster About the Occasion

On this day, the first of the month Tishri just 5650 years ago, according to Jewish tradition, Adam and Eve are said to have appeared in the Garden of Eden. Many centuries have rolled over the world since then but among the orthodox Jews the belief that they were the first inhabitants remains as strong as it was in the days of Abraham and Sarah.

To-day also is the first day in the Jewish calendar and corresponds to the usual new year. The moon and not the sun was used by the nations of antiquity as a means of calculation which probably accounts for the remarkable exactness of the computations. From now the passover and other festivals are regulated by it.

In the time of Moses new year was made a sacred holiday and since then has been celebrated by Hebrews of all shades and opinions. At 6 o'clock last evening the regular opening of the year occurred for following the ancient mode of calculation their days begin and end with the sunset. Last evening at 6 o'clock all the stores of the Jewish citizens were closed.

Rosh Hashanah is the name by which the holiday is popularly known among the Hebrews, though correctly speaking it should be called Yom Hazicharon, which in the Hebrew means the day of trumpets. Immediately following the New Year comes the ten penitential days closing with the great day of observance—the Day of Atonement.

One of the most noted ceremonies connected with the observance of the New Year is the blowing of the shofar. It is difficult for those who do not understand the various meanings attached to the blowing of the ram's horn to comprehend the effect it produces on all orthodox Jews. Ten reasons are given in the prayer book. They are:

First—Because of the beginning of the world.

Second—A proclamation to those who hear it that they must repent.

Third—As a reminder of the giving of the ten commandments to Moses.

Fourth—As an audible warning that no man can say he was ignorant of the day.

Fifth—As a remembrance of the destruction of the temple which took place as the horn's sound[ed].

Sixth—To commemorate the binding of Isaac and the ram that was sacrificed in his place.

Seventh—As a summons for as Amos says: "Shall a trumpet be blown and the people remain unterrified?"

Eighth—As a reminder of the judgment day when the trumpet shall awake the dead.

Ninth—As a reminder to pray for the dead and those who are scattered afar.

Tenth—To bring to all minds that there will surely be a resurrection of the dead and a life of eternity.

It requires a peculiar kind of skill to produce the blast from the horn. The sound is shrill but not unmusical and has a long drawn out, plaintive tone in keeping with the solemn and soulful events and religious services it is intended to commemorate and no one but the Jew can thoroughly understand its mysterious significance.

The day is not ignored wheresoever a Hebrew dwells, but where there may be found ten together services will be held in open assemblage in obedience to the time honored law. The reformed Jews and the orthodox Jews observe it in the same way the only difference being that the latter observe two days. One of the strict features of the holiday is the home life of the pious Jewish family in connection with it. Services will be held in the synagogue to-day.

PORTLAND, THURSDAY, SEPT. 26

THE UNITARIAN CONFERENCE.

The sixth assembly of the Pacific Unitarian Conference is now in session in this city. The history of Unitarianism is worthy of recital. John Locke, England's greatest metaphysician, John Milton, her greatest poet, next to Shakespeare, and Sir Isaac Newton, her greatest scientist, were Unitarian Christians, in the sense that they were Arians. The first conspicuous Unitarians in England in the 18th century, were Lindsey, who turned his back on the Anglican church and Dr. Priestley who seceded from the non-conformist church in which he had been educated. Priestley firmly defended the vital truths of Christianity against Tom Paine. He did not believe in the natural immortality of the soul, but held that man would be raised from the dead by the direct exertion of the power of God and thenceforward be immortal. Views substantially identical with this doctrine of immortality have been advocated, since Priestley's time, by Archbishop Whately and by Bishop Courtenay of the Anglican church.

The Unitarian revolt against Calvinism began in the United States about 1810, and by 1830 had achieved a permanent church life in New England. The climacteric of this great revolt was reached in 1819, when in the sermon preached by Dr. Channing, at the ordination of Rev. Jared Sparks, the famous biographer of Washington, Channing said: "We respect nothing but excellence, on earth or in heaven." Channing was born in 1780. There were many Unitarian preachers of power before him, like Freeman, Buckminster, Thatcher and the Elder Ware; but from 1819 to 1842, when he died, Channing was the great Unitarian leader, and the revolt of Unitarism against Calvinism was the revolt of "the doctrine of the dignity of human nature," as Channing expressed it, against that doctrine of superstition and moral despair, the total depravity of human nature, enunciated by Jonathan Edwards. Channing did not believe in the trinity nor in eternal punishment, nor in the atonement, nor in infant damnation; and his great adversary in Boston was by Dr. Lyman Beecher. The Unitarianism of to-day is instinct with the spirit of the fatherhood of God, and the brotherhood of man, intellectual independence and the right of free inquiry preached by Channing, and has gone beyond Channing through the influence of Emerson, who in 1837 succeeded to the work of Channing as the third great spiritual emancipator of New England—counting Roger Williams as the first.

The Unitarian clergy of to-day are for the most part men who stand with Theodore Parker, the great interpreter of the Emersonian spiritual philosophy to the million; and yet some of them, who did not approve of Parker living, have passed beyond his landmark to still more radical liberalism in religious opinion.

The influence of the Unitarian revolt in America that began to take form in 1810 has been of immense and far reaching moral and social consequence. This influence cannot be tested by the number of Unitarian churches and worshipers, but by the fact that the superior humanity, moral equity and rational spiritualism of the Unitarian church has compelled the orthodox Calvinistic churches to choose between broadening their theological phylacteries and liberalizing their practice if not their creed. Calvinism had to choose between loosing its girdle or bursting it asunder. It did loose its girdle, and the proof of it lies in the fact that Phillips Brooks, Heber Newton, Dr. Rylance, Rev. Dr. Thomas, Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott and Dr. Swing are all preaching the spiritual faith and humane practice of Channing, Emerson and Parker from non-Unitarian pulpits.

The Unitarian faith was that of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams. Its famous men living and dead include, besides those we have named, Edward Everett, Rev. John Pierpont, Charles Follen, Rev. Dr. Lowell, and his son, the poet James Russell Lowell, Francis Parkman, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Longfellow, George Bancroft, Rev. Orville Dewey, Rev. Dr. Hedge, Rev. Dr. James Freeman Clarke, Rev. C. A. Bartol, Rev. Dr. William G. Eliot, Colonel Thomas W. Higginson, Rev. James Martineau, of England, brother of Harriet Martineau; President Eliot, of Harvard college, Rev. Dr. Thomas Hill, ex-president of Harvard, Rev. James Walker, the famous metaphysician, also president of Harvard, Rev. A. P. Peabody, of the Harvard Divinity school, Rev. O. B. Frothingham, Rev. Dr. E. H. Sears, W. R. Greg, author of "The Creed of Christendom," Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Furness, Thomas Starr King, Rev. Dr. Horace Stebbins, Rev. Dr. Joseph Allen, Rev. Dr. W. C. Gannett, Edward E. Hale, Rev. Dr. Henry W. Bellows, Rev. M. J. Savage, George William Curtis, Governor Andrew and Governor Long, of Massachusetts, Rev. Robert Collyer, Rev. John W. Chadwick, Rev. C. C. Everett, Rev. Dr. Brooke Hereford, Mrs. Josephine Lowell, of the New York State Board of Charities, Julia Ward Howe, Clara Barton, Florence Nightingale and Dorothea Dix. We have recited these names because they bear eloquent testimony that the Unitarian faith has been represented in both Europe and the United States by a long list of men eminent in politics, poetry, philosophy, history, anti-slavery reform, philanthropy, and patriotic and humane statesmanship. It has been a faith that has satisfied men of spiritual thought, life and action, because it was instinct with absolute intellectual freedom.

LOCAL FAIRS.

The great fairs of Europe that were once thronged with visitors in the days of slow transportation, have been steadily declining in importance since the introduction of water and railway steam transportation and the telegraph. The great annual grain market of Vienna and the famous Russian fair of Nijni Novgorod have lately closed after a season remarkable for diminished attendance and small transactions compared with past years. The great French fair of Beaucaire, once among the first in Europe, was brought to an end in July and showed signs of decay under the changed conditions of modern trade and traffic. The Vienna grain market used to attract buyers and sellers from all parts of Southern Europe, but this year the attendance declined to less than a third of the average number. At the Russian fair of Nijni Novgorod the value of the goods sold has decreased from 0,000,000 of silver roubles in 1851 to half that amount in 1889. The vast multitude of Asiatics and visitors from Eastern Europe that once crowded to this fair no longer appear. The great fairs of Germany, at Frankfort-on-the-Main and Frankfort-on-the-Oder, also show signs of decline. The great book fair of Leipsic is still kept up, but its old-time importance is extinct. The English fairs and markets of ancient origin, are either dead or dying. The new methods of business brought about by steam transportation, the telegraph and the great newspaper have extinguished the necessity for buyers and sellers resorting to the great national fairs. The local fairs, like our own Industrial exposition, have taken their place, where both business necessities and social instincts can be satisfied.

It is reported that the executive committee of the Woolen Manufacturers' National Association, at the meeting recently held in Boston, did not demand free wool, but adopted resolutions in which the righteousness of protection for wool was distinctly conceded. Eastern newspapers bring us the resolutions, which state that "the association does not demand lower rates of duty on our chief raw material, wool, or other materials used in the fabrication of our goods, nor upon the machinery we employ," but the manufacturers do "demand a revision of the tariff, in which there shall in every instance be placed upon the manufactured product the full amount of the specific duty necessary to compensate whatever rates of duty public policy may require to be imposed upon the raw material." This is a fair proposition. If the manufacturers adhere to it protection will be maintained, but if they insist on having free wool, the wool growers will certainly insist on having free clothing.

Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania, and other members of the Johnstown relief committee, are attempting to interest the American people in a projected history of the great catastrophe. There is no doubt room in literature for an authentic and reliable account of the calamity, and when it is known that the funds derived from the sale of the book will be devoted to printers' orphan children and aged men and women sufferers, an amount should be raised that would put to shame a thousand rich men who gave little or nothing to the cause of charity and affliction.

KEEP THE CHURCH AND STATE FOREVER SEPARATE.—U. S. GRANT.

To the Public:

There will be a secular convention held at Masonic hall in Portland on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the 12th, 13th and 14th of October next. It will be composed of ladies and gentlemen from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia without regard to creed, who are willing to guarantee civil and religious liberty to every person, secure the taxation of church property and the total separation of church and state. It will be held under the auspices of the Oregon State Secular Union. To this convention and its free meetings you, your family and friends are most cordially invited.

The programme will be the best ever presented to a Portland audience. At half-past 9 on Saturday morning Roos & Hodgson's celebrated Ariel orchestra will discourse their best selections, while the audience is being seated. At 10 o'clock the orchestra will lead the audience in singing "America," "A Thousand Years My Own Columbia," and other patriotic songs. Miss Mattie Blaisdel will then present to the convention a beautiful and costly banner, with appropriate address and reply. After music by a select choir, Mrs. Judge Krekel, of Kansas City, the celebrated dramatic orator, will deliver the opening address, to be immediately followed by Elder Alonzo T. Jones, an orator delegated by the North Pacific conference of Seventh Day Adventists; Rev. Dr. Bloch, a Jewish rabbi; Ada Ballou, Mrs. Scott Briggs, Lois Waisbrooker, Professor James Roderick Kendell, Professor George H. Dawes, C. B. Reynolds, Dr. J. L. York, Hon. P. O. Chilstrom, Professor W. S. Ball, S. P. Putnam. Mrs. Selp will give some choice recitations. Professor Seymour has kindly consented to open the conference Monday morning. Other speakers have been invited. On Monday evening there will be an immense sociable and ball, under the management of Mrs. Carrie E. Haight, of East Portland, and her band of lady assistants. The above orchestra of six professors will furnish the music. Ladies will be admitted free; gentlemen $1, and a superb lunch furnished free by the ladies.

Remember this convention comes in the middle of the great fair and you will be entitled to reduced rates on the railroads and rivers. Please don't forget the time. If you are able and feel willing to raise and send me a few dollars on expenses, it will be thankfully received by the members of the union. Please pass a complimentary card to any person you wish to invite. Write me by return mail and give me a list of any persons and their postoffice address who you think might attend if I should send them a letter of invitation. On Friday before there will be an informal meeting of speakers and workers at Masonic hall, Third and Alder, from 1 P. M. until evening.

You are invited to attend this reunion as soon as you arrive, and assist in maturing plans.

In conclusion, I will take it for granted that you believe in liberty fraternity, equality, secularization of the state, the administration of absolute justice to all religions, creeds and beliefs. Therefore I again cordially invite you to attend this convention, the only object of which is to bless humanity.

C. BEAL,
President Oregon State Secular Society.

SOCIAL CHANGES.

Silverton Appeal.

Oregon is changing in its social features. Thousands of Eastern people are coming in. The old long credit system is giving way to monthly or sixty days settlements. The old "Yreka prices"—a relic of the "days of '49"—are no longer in vogue. Shrewd business men, principally young men, a majority of whom are native or old-time Oregonians, have charge of the business interests of the state, and they are of the pushing, progressive class. When they take hold of business it seems to expand and prosper. Within the past five years thousands of young business men have paved the way to wealth and are on the highway to affluence. Old-time, poky methods are going to the wall. Even the "old moss-backs," whom the Californians represent as laying around a log cabin and lending their money at 30 per cent., "too tired" to work, and always kicking at suggestions of improvement, with the remark, "It won't pay," are now leading the substantial booms.

In order to realize the changes that are constantly going on about us, one has but to compare the times of ten years ago with those of the present in his own community. Improved school facilities, churches better social relations, boards of trade, hospitals, colleges, social societies, have increased at a wonderful rate. The railways bring people more in contact with each other and frustrate that tendency to seclusion which used to characterize Oregon society a decade ago. Improvement is now the order of the day. Ten years ago the citizen of Silverton knew everybody in town and nearly all the people within a radius of half a dozen miles. Not so now. To-day our streets are filled with strangers. Go where you will you encounter strange and unfamiliar faces. Our population, once meager, is now becoming large. A few years more and the brave old pioneers of '43 and '48 will be few indeed. Another decade, and an Oregon Rip Van Winkle would be unable to recognize very few old land-marks outside of Mount Hood. We are progressing. The best thing we can do is to fall in line and progress with the rest of the surging human tide. Pioneer Oregon is no more.

Dr Cronin's Bloody Clothes.

New York Special to Philadelphia Press.

If the police of any city could capture "Bill" Starkey they would have in their hands the most important thread in the famous Cronin case. From an authoritative source it has been learned that Starkey engineered the New York end of the plot. He received the clothes in a tin box, and was only awaiting some secret information from Chicago before proceeding to England to make the master stroke. But the discovery of Cronin's remains upset all his plans, and so he hid the box and clothes somewhere in this city to await developments. When the chase became hot he fled, and has had no opportunity since to remove the all-important evidence. Starkey's plan, if everything went smoothly, comprised a voyage to London, obtain a cadaver at one of the colleges, dress it in Cronin's clothes, in the pockets of which were the necessary identification papers, and then throw the body in the Thames, from which another person in the plot would immediately haul it ashore and notify the police. A search of the remains would have revealed papers implicating Cronin in a plot with the British government, but the papers were forgeries. They would be mighty interesting reading if the tin box could be found. The opportunity is here for a Hawkshaw.

"Many people habitually endure a feeling of lassitude, because they think they have it. If they would take Dr. J. H. McLean's Sarsaparilla this feeling of weariness would give place to vigor and vitality.

Heavy Storm on the New Jersey Coast.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A heavy storm prevails along the New Jersey coast and the surf is high; the wind is blowing on shore, and much damage will undoubtedly be done at high tide to-night.

COAST CAMPAIGNERS.

Talking to Voters Who Live on the Shores of the Pacific Ocean.

Hon. S. G. Cosgrove; Messrs. Huston, Barton and Bloomfield in Pacific, Chehalis and Mason Counties.

SEALAND, Sept. 23.—This is the terminus of the Ilwaco Railway and Navigation Company's road running from Ilwaco, on Baker's bay to the head of Shoalwater bay. It is a narrow gauge road, sixteen miles long, twelve miles of which is along the Pacific ocean beach. From Ilwaco to the entrance of Shoalwater bay is twenty-six miles, and between the Pacific ocean and the placid waters of the inside bay is a narrow strip of land from a mile and a half to two miles wide, filled with beautiful groves of small pine, nice cottages, pretty townsites, splendid drives, and in the summer season the breakers are alive with thousands of merry bathers. The beach upon which the waves of the Pacific dash is one of the most beautiful in the world. It is as smooth as a billiard table. At Ocean Park the narrow gauge road turns to the right and finds its terminus here, one and a half miles from the ocean, on the shores of Shoalwater bay, where it is conceded that the bathing of the future will be indulged.

Here is a fine hotel, just erected, the Morrison house, where a hungry crowd of republican stump speakers arrived last night, and devoured clams, oysters, fish and crabs fresh from the water, after a remarkable trip up the Nasel river (with the accent on the sel) where the first mass meeting ever held in the southeastern portion of Pacific county occurred in the afternoon, at Nasel landing, fifteen miles from Shoalwater bay.

At Ilwaco the night before a grand rally was held in the opera house, a glee club of ladies and gentlemen sang some choice songs, accompanied with orchestral music, the band of the town played "Marching Through Georgia" and other airs, and the speaking of Hon. S. G. Cosgrove, Messrs. Thad Huston, C. M. Barton and N. H. Bloomfield, candidate for superior judge, appeared to fully satisfy the large audience present.

Yesterday morning a stage load of the stumpers was driven through a romantic looking forest of spruce, alder, hemlock and fir and fine looking cranberry patches and farms for seven miles to Hennessey's landing at the extreme south end of Shoalwater bay, thence taken in the tug [illegible], Captain Edwin Ferrer, owned by the republican candidate for joint senator, B. A. Seaborg, up the Nasel river, reaching the head of navigation on that stream, twenty miles distant, in the afternoon, where public speaking was had in the schoolhouse. Notwithstanding this roundabout trip we were, on arrival there, but seven miles in a direct line from the Columbia river opposite Astoria.

In this wild country are fully 200 voters hid away in mystic forests of fir on bottom lands of the richest description. Going up the tortuous stream with great overhanging trees, whose branches were plentifully loaded with pillows of moss and resembling in appearance the bayous of Florida, we found hundreds of salmon, now running freely, frightened off a large-sized bear who had come down to the water's edge to drink, saw a young fawn through the brush and noted myriads of wild ducks and cranes and a number of kingfishers. We dined just before the speaking at the ranch of Captain Harry Finely on elk meat, grouse and chicken with an appetite sharpened with the invigorating breezes of salt and forest air. Mr. Finley a native of Denmark, is a pioneer in that neck o' the woods. He has seven healthy looking children. Hundreds of the settlers who are loggers, fisherman and ranchmen are hardy Norsemen. They are mostly all republicans and will give a good account of themselves at the polls on the first of October. No democratic meetings have been held there nor will there be. The enemy is making a still hunt, or in other words sending missionaries to sit around on the stumps and talk to the settlers in groups, whereever they can find listeners.

C. C. Dalton, chairman of the Pacific county republican committee, Candidate Seaborg and others who were along on the trip, are making a vigorous canvass of the county, which county has thus far, in comparison with its numbers, been the banner republican county of the territory. Last November the county gave 45[illegible] republican votes. This year the southwestern section of the new state will give 600 republican votes and a majority of about 350.

Shoalwater bay has seven large rivers running into it. The principal ones are the Willapa and Nasel. They rise nearly 100 miles distant in the Coast range and are navigable for twenty miles up from the bay, and could be made much more serviceable if the government had ever paid any attention to them. Here is a job for Congressman John L. Wilson and the two new senators, for they will represent a state in congress with more coast and river line than any other state in the American Union, and a vast territory more utterly neglected than any other commonwealth. On each side of these rivers are great meadows with soil twenty feet deep as black as the stoke stack of the Volga.

The cranberry bogs through which we passed are going to develop great wealth for this section. Six hundred bushels were shipped to California last year and 1500 bushels will be shipped this year. The Pacific Cranberry Company, composed principally of San Francisco men, has fifty acres under cultivation and expect next year to send 30,000 bushels away. What cannot be raised here is not worth talking about. Out of the sea, taking these fertile shores, out of the rich soil of the meadows, and out of the grand forests that come down to the shores in many places are fish, flesh, fowl and every living thing. Large elk, deer, bear, cougar, grouse and salmon abound, and the sturdy pioneer has only to take down his gun, go out and shoot enough for more than one meal at a single shot and not go away from home more than a half mile to do it. It is the paradise of the man who loves his dog, his rod and his gun.

B. A. Seaborg, the next state senator from this section, a blue eyed fresh faced, fine looking man 48 years of age, has been ten years in Pacific county, and is known in every enterprise from Ilwaco up along the shores of Shoalwater bay. He owns the site of Sealand, the terminus of the railroad, and was formerly a director of the road. He was born on the coast of Finland, of Swedish parents. His ancestors followed the sea. He did also, and arrived in the United States in 1867. He lives at Ilwaco, is largely interested in salmon fishing and canning, both in the territory and Alaska, and is a plain practical business man. He has accumulated wealth, is of gentle speech and manners, easy of approach, and a man of brains.

Charles Foster, of South Bend, candidate for representative is about 45 years of age, a native of Maine, and a hotel-keeper.

J. G. Megler, of Brookfield, Wahkiakum county, is the other candidate for representative. He is about 50 years of age, and engaged in the canning business. These men, and those who vote for them, are not friendly to the unmanly attempt of Judge R. F. Dennison, in trying to defeat N. H. Bloomfield, the regular republican nominee, for superior judge. They like fair play.

While at Ilwaco we visited the life saving station at Fort Canby the lighthouse, the fort and its surroundings near by. Here we saw more work in the future for the newly elected representatives and the two coming senators, because the brave men who work in the breakers in saving life are not treated as they should be by the government in the matter of compensation or material with which to do effective work. Captain Al T. Harris, with his crew of eight men, have saved from watery graves nearly 60 souls within the last ten years. Nailed against the walls of the boathouse, in which are kept the life and surf boats and life saving paraphernalia, are trophies from the ships U. S. Grant, Great Republic, Whistler, Fernglen, Cairnsmore, Carrie B. Lake, Architect and Harvest Home, which went to pieces in the breaking waves of the coast. The wreck of the latter still lies on the sands of the shore a few miles above Long Beach. There are but three stations on the Washington coast and but seven along the whole Pacific front from Cape Flattery to San Diego, while the Atlantic coast is lined with them.

The Ilwaco narrow gauge road from Baker's bay to Sealand, a dozen miles of which follows the coast line within sight of the surging billows of the ocean, with their never ceasing roar, is opening up new towns facing the Pacific and bringing great wealth to this county. Fully 8500 people were entered along the shore during the season just ended, principally from the Oregon cities and the towns of Eastern Washington. Some were leaving with their household goods and gods to-day.

The country facing the ocean is far superior in natural resources to that of the coast of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, where millions of inhabitants of the populous centers of the East congregate in the warm weather, and the far-reaching possibilities of this section of Washington as it fills up with people seems beyond computation. Here the climate is more [illegible] mosquitoes do not attack the visitors, [illegible]. Beautiful cottages and comfortable hotels are springing up on all the points, [illegible] as nature made them, pretty lakes, handsome boulevard drives are being constructed, and in less than ten years time the [illegible] with the white wings of the sea. [illegible]

To-night a large Republican meeting was held at [illegible] miles north of Sealand. To-morrow night there will be speaking at [illegible], a pretty still town on Shoalwater bay, and on Wednesday night at Willapa, after which the campaigners will go to Hoquiam, Aberdeen and Montesano in the Gray's Harbor country, and at Shelton in Mason county, closing their Saturday night September 28. Wherever the speakers have been the reception was cordial.

Hon. S. G. Cosgrove, of Pomeroy, has made a good impression among the lumbermen. He eloquently and graphically describes to them his uphill fight in early days of poverty in mauling rails at 2½ cents a hundred under old democratic rule, paid in shinplaster currency and the bank often failing before he could get to the country store to make purchases. His farm experience in the northwestern woods of Ohio in helping his parents clear and grub out a place to live, his army experience, and his forcible presentation of the progress of the country under republican rule never fails to bring out enthusiastic applause, while those who follow him give to the hearers a plain practical talk on the tariff, the evil effects of free trade in a new country where there are lumber, coal, iron and fishing interests to be protected, and the necessity for sending to Washington two stalwart republican United States senators. It is the opinion of those who have watched the course of political events on this coast that the republican majority for state and county officers will be pronounced and emphatic.

POLITICS AT CHEHALIS.

Republican Candidates Inspiring Great Party Enthusiasm.

CHEHALIS, Sept. 25.—Hon. John B. Allen and ex-Governor Watson C. Squires addressed the largest assembly ever seen at a political meeting in the county at the opera house here last night. Probably 500 people were present. Governor Squires' oration was confined to the tariff question and was addressed to the reasoning faculties of the audience. Hon. John B. Allen followed with an address which was a wonderful effort, and was pronounced by his friends, who have heard him often, the best of his life. The audience was filled with enthusiasm and were profuse and hearty in applause. The reception was one of much credit to the party, and was enjoyed by many democrats as well. [illegible] county don't give a big republican majority this year then the signs are all wrong. [illegible] candidates are all making speeches and visiting the people and send in the most flattering reports of the reception accorded them.

Hon. A. J. Thompson, of Tacoma, [illegible] local republican candidate, will [illegible] campaign reception here at Chehalis Saturday night. The democratic candidates so far have declined to meet the republicans [illegible] an energetic still-hunt. They are bending every energy to elect the state senator, and seem to not care if the remainder of the ticket is [illegible] the republican candidate, Hon. [illegible] well known and respected, that there is [illegible] his failing to carry the full vote [illegible] Mr. Long came here when but 17 years [illegible] [illegible] and has made a creditable record in Lewis county. Twice he has been sent to the legislature, [illegible].

The only topic here of general interest [illegible] of politics is the county fair, which begins the day after election. It promises to be a grand success. Some good races are also assured, a new thing at our county fairs.

THE GOVERNOR'S DISCOVERY.

Why Should He Refuse to Approve the Bonds of the Railroad Commissioners?

PORTLAND, Sept. 25.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Governor Pennoyer, in an interview recently published in your paper, states that he has "discovered" that the official bonds of the railroad commissioners are unapproved, and that he will not approve the same. In refusing to exercise this official duty his excellency is violating law in about the same degree that is charged against the Celilo fisherman. Section 4 of the act of 1887, creating the board of railroad commissioners, provides, in addition to the oath of office, that "each of said commissioners shall also, before entering upon the discharge of his duties, enter into bonds with security to be approved by the governor, in the sum of $10,000, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duty as such commissioner."

Under this provision it is clearly the duty of the governor to approve the bonds, provided the security is ample. The financial responsibility of the bondsmen is the only matter to be questioned by him, but it does not appear that he has ever expressed dissatisfaction with the bonds in this respect. The fact is that his alleged discovery was made within 48 hours after the passage of the amended law over his veto, last February. While smarting under this application of the legislative lash his excellency stated that he would not approve the bonds, thinking thus to defeat the will of the legislature. If the bonds cannot be approved why.

REPUBLICAN CIRCULAR.

Issued by the State Central Committee of Washington.

The following circular has been sent out from the headquarters of the republican state central committee at Olympia:

OLYMPIA, WN., Sept. 21, 1889.

We are advised that the democratic plan of campaign is to spring charges against our candidates at the very last moment at a time when they hope it will be too late for us to answer them. While we do not believe that republicans will seriously listen to, or for a moment entertain charges made by political opponents against our nominees during the last days of a campaign, yet we deem it best to caution republicans everywhere against accepting and acting upon statements reflecting upon our candidates. We trust that none will be deceived by such transparent attempts, but will unite in swelling what promises to be a magnificent majority for the entire republican ticket.

O. A. BOWEN, Secretary.

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY.

President Gilman Says its Efficiency is Not Impaired.

Baltimore Sun, Sept. 13.

In view of the reports which have recently been published respecting the Johns Hopkins university, President Gilman authorizes the statement that the university will begin its next year on the 1st of October with undiminished efficiency. Neither the salary of the president nor those of the professors have been cut down, but several new appointments have been made. The donations during the summer have pointed to the usual number of students, and the courses of instruction will be given as announced in the programme. As to the finances of the university, it is no secret that the income derived from the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was cut off some time ago, but the accumulated income of former years, the income from investments outside of the railroad, the income from tuition (which amounted last year to nearly $40,000) are available. Besides all this, a number of generous persons have subscribed the sum of $108,000 to be expended as an emergency fund during the next three years. In addition, a new building, given by Mr. Eugene Levering, of Baltimore, is now going up. A lectureship in literature has been endowed by a gift of $20,000. By the death of John W. McCoy the university inherits at once his choice library of 8000 volumes, and is the residuary legatee of his estate. The exact amount to be received from this source cannot yet be ascertained, but the most prudent estimates place it above $100,000, exclusive of the library. This gift is free from conditions. It is safe to say that within six months the Johns Hopkins university has received from these various sources nearly $300,000, and other gifts are expected. The national character of the institution is a strong reason why its work should receive important aid from a distance. It will thus be seen that no consideration need be given to thriving rumors, as the present efficiency of the university is assured for the next three years.

The Supreme Object.

Milwaukee Sentinel.

At the laying of a church corner stone at Washington, Cardinal Gibbons said: "I rejoice in the growth and progress of the Catholic religion because I am convinced that the growth of the Catholic faith in this country will more than by any other means promote the welfare and stability of our American institutions."

Anybody is free to question whether the growth of this faith, more than any other means, promote the stability of our institutions, but the remark is noteworthy because it places the welfare of American institutions as the supreme object. Many would suppose that Cardinal Gibbons rejoices in the growth of his faith because it is his faith and strengthens his church; but he declares that the welfare of American institutions is the one important object.

The Greatest Fifty Years of All.

Mr. Depew reports Mr. Gladstone as saying that if he were given the choice of a half century in which to work, out of all that had preceded back to the dawn of history and all that would succeed from the present far into the future, he would select precisely the fifty years of his active life. Why? Because during that time had been the abolition of slavery, the removal of restrictions on the Catholics, the repeal of the corn laws, the humanizing of the penal enactments, the extension of suffrage—in a word, it had been the only fifty years in the world's history devoted to emancipation. Emancipation, he added, was yet to be fully won by reconstruction, and the problems were that the next fifty years would be a half century of [illegible]."

Engagement of Miss Margaret Blaine.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 25.—The engagement of Miss Margaret Blaine to Walter J. Damrosch, the well known musician, is no longer a secret, and it will be formally announced immediately after Emmons Blaine's wedding. Miss Blaine and Mr. Damrosch first met on Carnegie's coaching trip in Scotland, both being members of that historic party, and their acquaintance then ripened into an engagement.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

The Sixth Annual Reunion of Christian Workers at Vancouver, B. C.

A Brief Report of the Proceedings by Secretary C. W. Beers—Associations Represented—Delegates—Successful Year.

Upon invitation of the association of Vancouver, B. C., the sixth convention of the Young Men's Christian Association convened in that city September 19, remaining in session to the evening of the 22d.

Twenty-one associations were represented by 119 delegates, who arrived on Thursday morning and immediately gathered in the First Baptist church, dedicated only the Sunday previous, for the formal opening of the convention. Among the most distinguished gentlemen present were Hon. John Robson, provincial secretary of British Columbia, and his worship Mayor Oppenheimer, of Vancouver.

A royal reception was given the delegates, after which, for permanent officers, the association selected T. M. Henderson, esq., of Victoria, president; Hon. John Robson, of Victoria, G. F. Orchard, of Tacoma, D. S. Curtis, of New Westminster, vice-presidents; A. R. Rand, of New Westminster and L. W. Frewer, of Vancouver, secretaries.

After a few speeches by visiting and Vancouver delegates, and the appointment of standing committees, the convention accepted the invitation of the ladies of Vancouver to a most elaborate lunch spread in Wilson hall. After lunch came the address of welcome by Rev. Mr. McLaren, who, on behalf of the mayor, presented to the delegates the freedom of the city. Other addresses followed on behalf of the pastors of the city and the local association.

Upon reassembling reports from the various associations were received, showing that this line of Christian endeavor was keeping pace with the development of the country, as rapid and unexpected as the latter had been.

Steady, permanent growth had been attained by every association, and the new organizations affected were full of life and already had secured firm footings in the places where organized.

Each evening during the convention mass meetings were held in the Imperial opera house, and the people gathered in large numbers to hear addresses on "The Spirit Himself," "The Only Safe Guide to Young Men," "The Young Man for the Times," "The Field Work and Agencies of the Young Men's Christian Association," handled by some of the best talent on the Pacific coast. Mr. Henry Edward Brown, of New York, represented the international committee, and not only met in convention with the delegates, but had special gatherings of the business men to discuss the business features of the work. Bankers, leading real estate agents, merchants and managers of other commercial and business enterprises, made up a large bulk of the delegates.

Lines of work that had been found successful were reported on, and new branches that were crying for assistance were discussed.

The fact of this being the close of the first year with a state secretary gave a deeper interest to the convention. Twenty-seven hundred dollars was pledged to the state work for the ensuing year, and nearly $3000 was raised to aid in pushing forward the association building in Vancouver.

The seventh annual convention will be held in Portland a year hence.

Returning home, some of the delegates stopped at New Westminster, where over $600 was secured toward a building fund.

The convention was a grand success in every way. The delegates were taken into the homes of the people and were hospitably entertained.

On Friday evening the nineteen delegates from Portland will meet with the friends of the association in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. and report fully the work of the convention. It is hoped by the delegates that the good people of Portland will attend this gathering and enjoy the excellent programme arranged for the occasion.

ARMY APPOINTMENTS.

Important Vacancies to be Filled in the Near Future.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Within the next week or two Secretary of War Proctor will probably make three important appointments in the United States army. Colonel Amos Beckwith, of the subsistence department and Captain Charles H. Hoyt, of the quartermaster's department, are to be retired, the former on October 4 and the latter on September 30.

Besides these, there is also another vacancy that has been left unfilled since the retirement of Colonel Wm. W. Burns, of the subsistence department on September 3, because it was then thought best to wait and fill all three at once. These retirements necessitate the appointment of commissaries of subsistence, with the rank of captain, and one assistant quartermaster with the same rank.

It is ordinarily presupposed that such vacancies shall be filled by promotion from the line of the army, but there is a belief growing that Secretary Proctor and the president intend to take advantage of the law passed during Arthur's administration, which provides that such appointments might be made from civil life. It is regarded as quite likely that in case the new appointees are civilians they will be received from the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The retirement of Colonel Beckwith will cause the promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel George Bell to be colonel, Major Small to be lieutenant colonel and Captain Charles B. Penrose to be major.

LONDON GRAIN LETTER.

The London correspondent of the Northwestern Miller writing under date of September 6 says

After a week of hot, summer weather highly favorable for the harvest in the northeast and north of England, we experienced one of the most severe storms on record on Monday last Many parts of the country were thus visited by heavy rains which have done serious injury to the outstanding crops in many parts of the country This change in the weather imparted a temporary firmness to the market but buyers kept aloof, and in view of the present liberal supplies of foreign and prospective liberal supplies of new home grown wheat do not seem disposed to look for better prices just yet. As a matter of fact our imports during the past four weeks have been about 2 000 000 bushels beyond our requirements and as the quantity afloat has only decreased about 8 000 000 bushels in this period there is no anxiety felt about the supplies in the immediate future Red winter cargoes for September shipment offer in vain at 31s 6d @31s 9d while parcels to London find few buyers even at 31s. No 1 California prompt shipment which three weeks ago sold at 36s per 500 pounds is to-day worth only about 34s 6d and the decline in other foreign wheats is in equal proportion Our total supplies during the season ended August 31 have been as follows, compared with those of last year

	1888 89, bus	1887-88 bus
Foreign wheat..	113 600 000	9? ?30 000
Foreign flour	36 830 000	4? ?20 000
Home wheat	62,400 000	64 800 000
Total..	212,800 000	206, 100,000
Stocks September 1 in first hands in U K	16,400,000	13 000 000

There is thus practically no difference in the stocks compared with those of last year though as will be seen our total supplies have exceeded those of 1887-88 by about 6,400,000 bushels The explanation is that though 62,400 000 bushels of native wheat are shown to have been received from farmers the flour producing qualities were 30 per cent worse than the previous year and thus a larger comparative quantity of foreign wheat was needed Beerbohm's List of to-day contains his annual estimate of the world's wheat supplies and probable requirements in 1889-90 This statement is always looked forward to on this side with great interest, owing to its being generally correct, and always reliable. The probable requirements are put as follows

	Bushels.
United Kingdom	140 000 000
France	16 000 000
Belgium, Holland and Germany	3? ,000 000
Switzerland	1? 000 000
Italy	2? 000 000
Spain and Portugal	8 000 000
Greece, Norway and Sweden	8 000 000
West Indies, China, Brazil, etc	23 000 000
Total	258,000 000

The probable exports of the various countries are thus estimated

	Bushels.
United States	120,000,000
Russia and Roumania	96,000,000
India	31 000,000
Austria Hungary
Australasia, Chili and Argentine	?6 000 000
Sundries	6 000 000
Total probable supplies	2?4,000 000
Total probable requirements	2?0,000 000
Difference.	4 000,000

The supplies and requirements are thus practically balanced. Beerbohm explains his reasons and data for the various estimates among which he shows that he allows 3 000 000 bushels of old wheat in Russia to be available for export this season to supplement the present short crop in that country The result seems to me to be that with a sufficiency of supplies in prospect there is not much chance of any immediate advance but later in the season when the first rush of new wheat is over there ought to be a healthy trade and gradually improving prices.

The Merchandise Market.

The weather has been very fine for the past week Shippers and farmers look for no higher prices in wheat at least not until after the turn of the year Shippers are pretty well supplied and have enough in storage to fill most of their charters Farmers let go freely and the market is essentially quiet In the produce market poultry eggs and butter are firm Geese have begun to come in and the price has advanced Eggs are scarce It is the opinion along the street that farmers are holding off for fair weather Whatever the cause receipts are light and the price has advanced to 30c per dozen The following is taken from the regular weekly review of the San Francisco Commercial News

The movement of merchandise has been large and shows that business must be in a healthy state even if values do not indicate improvement Both the import and export trade show activity and the domestic movement is also free Overland shipments are steadily increasing in spite of the diversion of much merchandise to the Canadian Pacific road Clearing House statistics also show a slight increase over the corresponding period of 1888 There has been no change in the local sugar market for several weeks and at current rates a good business is reported The eastern situation has also remained unaltered there according to mail advices the product of the refiners continues to find a very steady outlet the only accumulation being of granulated and the prospect that consumption will be actively maintained for at least six weeks longer has encouraged refiners to increase their holdings of raw material at the low prices now current especially as Philadelphia has been a buyer and the Trust could scarcely permit its competitor to absorb all the offerings There has been also further improvement in European markets which have reflected a steadier tone and more confidence is being as indicated by the slight advance in values that has taken place The offerings of beet for the remainder of this crop year are comparatively light notwithstanding that the available supply is much larger than had been expected and had been foreshadowed by statisticians and the offerings of new crop for November and December delivery also point to less disposition to sell No definite estimates of the growing crop have been possible yet but the recent growth of the beet has not been as favorable as last year at this time The imports of sugar at this port from January 1st to September 1st were as follows

From—	Pounds
Hawaiian Islands	2 8?? ?1
Philippine Islands	?8 6?? ?10
Java	4 40? 4 4
Central America	3 1?? ?
China	4?? 6?0
Total	27? ?8 9

The coffee market, which four weeks ago was inactive improved considerably during the month and at one time sales were free At the close however quietness again rules The season is over and receipts from Central America will not amount to much until the new crop begins to move Imports for the year to September 1 were as follows

From—	Pounds
Central America	1? ?0 4?1
Mexico	7 4?7
Java	430 073
East Indies, etc	? ? 4 1
Total	1? 1?1 ?8

The exports for the same time including shipments East by rail were ? [illegible] pounds

All descriptions of rice are strong at quotations, and whites and rice has been steady the past week all grades show a material advance over quotations given a month ago Stocks of China rice in primary markets are light and values much enhanced Consequently shipments to this port have fallen off and quotations place mixed rice when compared pound for pound on a par with island rice while the various grades classed as No 1 China all show an equally marked advance The [illegible] arrived from China on Wednesday with 1?6?5 packages of rice but this did not unfavorably influence the market as stocks were very low The Consuelo also arrived from the islands with 4?07 bags of rice, the bulk of which has been sold from ships side at $4 ?0 per 100 pounds. The exports during August from all sources amounted to [illegible] pounds a total for the year to September 1 of 3? ? [illegible] pounds

Canned fruits are moving off fairly well at steady prices the demand for peaches being more marked than for other goods Prices show no material change, but the prospects favor moving the stock into consumption by the time new goods are coming on the market Buyers seem disposed to purchase only for immediate needs the speculative demand, often active at this season being conspicuously absent this year

There is no change to note in the salmon market business being excessively dull but prices nominally unchanged In fact large purchasers will probably find it necessary to stand under the market and in their own interest to prevent a break. Receipts from Alaska are free and many well posted merchants believe a larger pack will be shipped from that quarter than any published estimate has predicted Unfortunately for the trade it has been the custom to underrate the pack each season and legitimate buyers have become wary of trusting to the figures put out from San Francisco At present it is known that there is a large amount due here in addition to the free supplies already received while of the 4 000 cases more or less wrecked with the Ancon and Wildwood a large portion will doubtless be saved Two steamers have been chartered to bring it to this market The British Columbia pack exceeds early estimates The Dora Bro[illegible] ersen has cleared from Victoria for London with 28 000 cases Fraser river, and the Titan and J H Henstede follow her, each to load full cargoes of salmon

NOW FOR A JOCKEY CLUB.

If One Is Organized Mayor DeLashmutt Will Take $10,000 of the Stock.

Large Purses, He Says, Would Induce Eastern Horsemen to Bring Their Stables to the Portland Race Meetings.

The large attendance at the recent fall meeting of the Portland Speed Association proved that the people of Portland will patronize legitimate racing Time was when it was difficult to get a corporal s guard of respectable people to go to a race in this vicinity, but since the Speed Association took charge of matters there has been a radical change What is needed is a good track The one at City View Park is not a credit to a metropolitan community of 70 000 or 75,000 people It could be improved in many ways The Speed Association being only a lessee of the park, and not knowing when it will be called upon to vacate, cannot be expected to make permanent improvements that will be valueless to it at the expiration of the lease Then again, the officers of the association are business men, and having other work to do are desirous of withdrawing from the field In consequence there is talk of organizing a permanent jockey club Mayor DeLashmutt favors this plan He is ready and willing to promote any scheme to legitimize horse racing He would no more think of staying away from a good horse race than he would from his bank

"Such an association if properly managed, would be a success without doubt," he said yesterday "If one is organized and a track built that would be a credit to the city and the state I will take $10,000 of the stock Everything must be done on a large scale and meetings should be held in the spring and fall They would attract thousands of people to the city help business and promote the stock interests of the country If the club owned its own track it could offer large purses, which would draw the best Eastern horses to the city Horsemen go wherever the best purses are offered In the East and in California they do not think of offering a purse smaller than $1000 When I was in Montana during the summer Faust the Wyoming 3 year-old trotted in 2 1¾, and Jean ... in 2 ... We could induce such speedy horses to come here by offering attractive purses

A WAVE-TOSSED BODY

Remains of James O'Connor Found Floating in the Willamette—Inquest This Morning

Bert Osborn John Fellows and R. Hutchins while fishing near the foot of B street about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon discovered the lifeless body of a man, apparently about 40 years of age, floating in the river, near the steamer Danube

Either Patrolman Byrnes helped to take the body to shore and the coroner removed it to the morgue soon after From appearances the man must have been in the water ten days or two weeks It is in a bad state of decomposition and portions of the face have either been knocked off by coming in violent contact with obstructions in the river or eaten off by fish The body was clothed in a respectable suit

In the inside pocket was found a pocket book bearing the name of James O'Connor and several pieces of paper on which were written the names of William W Cook Adjutant General Lansing Michigan Harry D Roslyn Captain Ross Company B, and Lieutenant Zeigler ...th Michigan He had also a key attached to a triangular brass tag, bearing the number 21 As usual a remarkable coincidence by the way, the purse contained no money

The deceased was in all probability a soldier from Michigan who had sought the golden valley of the Willamette only to meet death in the water of the river Several cuts on the back of the head give rise to the suspicion of foul play

An inquest will be held on the remains at 10 o'clock this morning

HOFFMAN HELD TO ANSWER.

The Forger Prefers to Face the Grand Jury Rather Than Face an Examination in the Police Court.

John Hoffman, the forger arrested by Officer Foss Tuesday afternoon, was yesterday arraigned in the police court on a charge of obtaining money on forged checks. The prisoner appeared nervous, and the restless moving of his eyes indicated that he fully realizes the serious nature of the charges pending against him In reply to the district attorney s query as to whether he desired an examination or to waive Hoffman meekly replied "I will waive The court accordingly held him to appear before the grand jury with bonds fixed at $1000

In addition to the forgeries already mentioned, Hoffman hypothecated a check for $17 to J Block, the pawnbroker on North Front street He also attempted to pass one on the proprietor of the Wheel saloon, on the corner of Fourth and Taylor streets His victims at Oregon City are said to be numerous To most of the checks he affixed the signature of W M Killingsworth

The Evening Telegram has ascertained that Hoffman formerly conducted a real estate and employment agency at 67½ North Third street, where he swindled his partner H J Haggett, out of considerable money His method of doing business was to furnish fictitious employment for unsuspecting workmen a large number of whom he victimized in this way One case is that of a man named G W Reed, whom he sent on a wild goose chase to La Grande He also sent twelve men to do government work on the Lower Columbia who returned, having failed to find the place specified At another time he located ten different settlers upon the same timber claim in Washington county He claims to be the owner of considerable property in Kansas, but this is doubted by his former associates

DANGEROUS TO FIREMEN

Vigorous Protest Against Putting Up Wires For Carrying "High Potential" Electric Currents.

Chief Engineer Morgan, of the fire department, yesterday received the following string of resolutions, which were unanimously adopted at a convention of the National Association of Fire Engineers, held at Kansas City, Mo September 10 to 14

Whereas The present method of overhead wires carrying high potential currents ... for arc lights electric railroads power etc, are exceedingly dangerous especially to firemen when in the discharge of their duties therefore be it

Resolved, That we urge upon all legislative bodies, both municipal and state that the only conceded safe method for the transmission of such currents is underground

Resolved, That wherever any overhead method is allowed or tolerated then every known precaution should be required by suitable laws or ordinances

Resolved, That the present method of insulation of overhead wires is very imperfect, and however good apparently, deteriorates rapidly after being put up and is virtually not insulation

Resolved, That the various fire chiefs throughout the United States should in no manner jeopardize the lives or limbs of the members of their departments, until they have first assured themselves that no currents are passing on such overhead wires in the immediate proximity of the fire

Resolved, That the most rigid inspection of wires entering buildings, carrying high potential currents, should be had by competent authority, and every precaution taken to prevent any possible contact of such wires with those of telephone and fire alarm wires, water or gas pipes

Resolved, That we earnestly call upon all municipal and legislative bodies, and urge the necessity of suitable legislation and inspection of the present dangerous system of overhead wires for the purpose of lessening the dangers and evils thereof

Resolved That we, the National Association of Fire Engineers, in convention assembled emphatically assert that the only safe method for such currents is underground, and place our most unequivocal condemnation on all overhead or suspended wires, for the reason of its great danger to life, as well as to property

Resolved That the secretary be instructed to have these resolutions printed and distributed, and the various chiefs to have the same published from time to time in their local papers

THE TANNER CREEK SEWER.

The Work Is Being Pushed and the Job Is Rapidly Approaching Completion.

The extension of the Tanner creek sewer is rapidly approaching completion The big mudhole at the point where it connects with the completed portion of the sewer, just south of B street, is being rapidly filled with concrete, the rock and cement for which is wheeled and rolled down the steep slope west of the car stables

The bed of concrete is sixteen feet wide across the bottom and five feet nine inches high to the bottom of the sewer and ... out walls of concrete with a slope of one in one rise above that It is a troublesome and costly job to get this concrete in place and the contractor Mr Riner says he will be glad when the job is done for it costs as much to get the rock down the bank as it costs delivered at the top The bricklaying will be finished in a day or two, and then it will take a week to build the wingdams at the entrance

THE MONEY TOOK WINGS

Pat Murphy Institutes Proceedings for Recovering $19 85 Put Up in a Game of Poker.

Pat Murphy a middle aged laborer, has learned by sad experience that money ventured in games of chance is liable to take wings.

Several days since he took a notion to increase the size of his wallet by lending $20 to two young men, who were to buck the royal tiger John Barry, one of the duo, had the coin changed by investing in three glasses of beer which the other, John Murphy alias James Orton, and the complainant, helped him to consume. Barry and Orton then went in search of a poker game and after making several calls succeeded in finding one which they were permitted to participate in It appears that the two young men were not very well acquainted with this fascinating game of "chips" for when the dealer told them that it required $1? 85 to take hands in the business Barry unhesitatingly gave up the coin During some few preliminary arrangements the dealer disappeared in another room and with him disappeared the money For some reason he has forgotten to return

Murphy now wants his money back He had Barry arrested on a charge of larceny by bailee in the police court and swore out a complaint against John Murphy or Orton on a similar charge in Justice Phelan s court Barry pleaded not guilty yesterday and will have an examination this afternoon

TO-NIGHT THE BIG FAIR OPENS

Everything Will Be in Readiness for the Formal Inauguration of the Great Exposition.

A steady string of vehicles of all kinds was going to and coming from the Exposition building all day yesterday and scores of people were busy unloading them and stowing away their loads in the huge building

The inside of the building presented a scene of great activity Some were carrying large pieces of splendid furniture upstairs while on another staircase a gang were rolling up buggies and carriages of all kinds. In other places painters and decorators were giving the finishing touches to stands and in other stands goods of all kinds were being arranged in the most attractive manner It is hardly within the bounds of probability that all the exhibits will be in readiness at the time set for opening the fair but the prospects for this much to be desired state of affairs are much better than ever before

ART GALLERY

The art gallery will be ready and with the white statuary and splendid pictures will present a much more striking and beautiful appearance than ever before Powers s Greek Slave of which all have heard and which maintained the sculptor has a place of honor in the collection

There are a large number of pictures for which there is no space in the gallery and which are consequently left unhung and which should be removed

SIGNOR LIBERATI—THE PROGRAMME

Signor Liberati telegraphed yesterday morning from Hope Idaho to Superintendent Kohler to announce that he has with his band Madam Sophia Romani prima donna soprano and international singer

The band music will be interspersed with singing by this lady and other artists accompanying Liberati

He and his celebrated band will arrive here by special train about 10 o clock this morning through the courtesy of the Northern Pacific The following programme of the music to be played at the opening of the fair was telegraphed with the OREGONIAN last night

Overture	American National Airs
Our Flag to the Front —Liberati
Dedicated to Governor Pennoyer
Anvil Chorus	Verdi
Overture—"William Tell	Rossini
Cornet Solo—Liberati	by Signor Liberati

OTHER FEATURES

The florists were yesterday finishing up the arrangement of their department which will be in complete order at the time of opening They have surpassed themselves on this occasion and have arranged a display which cannot be surpassed on this coast, and which visitors from the East say cannot be equaled there

It is generally conceded that the Exposition building is the finest in the country Of course there are larger ones but none so nicely arranged or so handsome architecturally while the music hall or central division is without an equal This will be the verdict of the crowd who will throng the building when it is opened at 7 30 this evening

The committee who have in charge the matter of entertaining the newspaper men on Saturday newspaper day have about completed their arrangements and have prepared a somewhat elaborate programme All newspaper men who wish to participate in this arrangement are requested to call at the office of the West Shore at 1 A M Saturday

DECIDEDLY RURAL BUT CHARITABLE

How Two Young Women Made Up a Purse For a Blind Man.

Two young women, plainly dressed and having a decided rural appearance were out for a little walk on First street last evening They had come to see the Exposition, and were taking in the sights. At Washington street in front of the Northern Pacific office they saw a blind man holding a cigar box to catch the pennies of the charitable He was evidently the first blind man they had ever seen for they looked at him over their shoulders while they walked fifty feet They stopped in front of a show window and looked at each other squarely in the face

"Miranda" said the smaller of the two a demure girl of about 18 "that man is blind"

"So he be" replied the other, a tall young woman who looked all of 24 "Did you see that sign on his hat 'Help the blind'"

"Miranda" continued the first speaker "We ve come to own town to see the exposition but I guess we can spare a few cents to make that poor blind fellow happy"

The tall girl nodded assent and the two began fumbling in their pockets for the buggy's mite After a minute s fishing the tall girl produced a shiny 10-cent piece, and the other produced two bright nickels Then followed a brief argument as to who should make the contribution They settled it by agreeing to make individual deposits. As they returned to where the blind man was standing the tall girl threw her head back like an old soldier, and nudging her companion said half aloud

"Now, Susie look straight ahead and don t smile, and let us show the people that though we are from the country we are charitable"

In another minute the coins jingled in the cigar box a smile of gratitude passed over the blind man s face as he transferred them to his pockets and the country girls continued their stroll

NORTH FRONT STREET,

Will Be Improved as Soon as Practicable

The public have been waiting for some time if not long, to learn when North Front street will be cleared of railroad tracks and improved and the new union depot opened The filling in of Couch lake has now so far progressed that Mr J A Johnston engineer of the terminal Company states that he will have the passenger track of the Northern Pacific finished on the west side of the union freight depot about the first of the month

As soon as practicable ... temporary tracks will be removed from Front street and then the street will be improved A splendid board sidewalk of four feet ... along nearly the whole front of the 800 feet lot, the union freight depot and it is likely that this depot will be opened before the rainy weather sets in then teamsters will no longer have to run ... cars on the team track in the rain
